VENEZUELA--COLOMBIA.

United States Government Hears from Several Consuls.

THE NEWS, CAME BY MAIL

Letters Show a Very Serious Condition as Existing—We Hear Nothing Official of Departure of Colombian Minister.

MACHIAS TAKING ON AMMUNITION

WASHINGTON, August 14.—The state department yesterday received mail advices from three different quarters in Colombia, all showing revolutionary movements in progress and a rather serious condition of affairs. Both termini of the Panama railway route were heard from, Consul General Gudger writing from Panama as to a revolutionary attack on nearby towns and Consul Malros, at Colon, reporting that guerrilla fighting has been going on at different points between Colon and Panama. At the same time Minister Hart wrote from the capital of Colombia as to the arrest and imprisonment of prominent adherents of the former president, Dr. Sanclemente, as they were suspected of seeking to have the nationalist organization join with the liberals who are said to be showing increased strength and activity in a revolutionary movement. Although these letters have taken some time to come forward, yet they give the state department about the best and the only definite information which is at hand as to the condition of affairs. Mr. Gudger's letters speak of a revolutionary raid on the 26th and 27th of July, in which an alcaide and several policemen were made prisoners and some arms and provisions captured. This is not the holding up of the train at Matachin, reported by him by cable, as that happened later, and did not result in any looting.

The navy department received word yesterday of the departure of the battleship Iowa from Puget sound for San Francisco, whence she will go to Panama if her services are required there.

The attention of officials has been attracted to a manifesto issued by General Uribe-Uribe, leader of the Colombian revolutionists, declaring for a "Greater Colombia" and although nothing of an Official nature has been received on the subject, yet it appears to bear out the ideas held for some time as to the scope of the present trouble. According to the manifesto Uribe-Uribe is seeking to unite the interests of Colombia, Venezuela and Eucador.

There is an entire lack of official information concerning the progress of affairs in either Venezuela, or Colombia. Whether the Colombian minister actually has left Venezuela, as reported in a press dispatch from Willemstad, is not known here. The departure of the minister would be in line with what was foreshadowed when the American charge d'affairs, Mr. Russell, in Venezuela, asked for authority to represent Colombia in case the minister withdrew.

The navy department had no word today from the Machias. The latter is taking on ammunition at Norfolk and the department has telegraphed asking when she will be ready to sail.

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—The Times today says: According to El Conservador, a semi-official newspaper published at Barranquilla, Colombia, General Raefel Uribe-Uribe was killed at San Cristobal on July 27th while fighting with the Venezuelean troop against the Colombian invaders.

Jersey Shore Sensation.

Jersey Shore has a sensation around which is a web of mystery, and much speculation is rife as to whether a woman has committed suicide.

Monday morning while Ash Rogers, a fisherman, was digging lamper eels at the foot of Dr. Martin's lane, he found a suit of woman's under-clothing and a pair of red stockings along the river bank. As far as can be ascertained, no woman is missing. It is feared that some unfortunate has drowned herself.

Case of Blood Poison.

Henry Smith, of Howard, Centre county, was taken this week to the Williamsport hospital suffering with a case of blood poison. Smith was injured in a Potter county lumber camp two months ago, and the wound in his knee was not thought at first to be serious.

—The Carriers mill, owned by R. L. Buzard, at Brockwayville, was destroyed by fire Monday morning. The DuBois fire department responded to an appeal for assistance.

PENNSYLVANIA DAY.

September 20th the Date Selected by the State Commission.

Friday, September 20th, will be known at the Pan-American Exposition, Buffalo, as Pennsylvania Day, and will be properly observed. The state commission Thursday morning notified Secretary Gerwig to announce the selection of this date.

The commission will be present in a body, going from Harrisburg, and the governor and his staff will be present, going on a special train with the commission. It it proposed to hold appropriate exercises in one of the large halls on the grounds. There will be addresses by prominent Pennsylvanians and music by one of the bands at the exposition, and during the day open house will be kept at the Pennsylvania building, where the governor and the commission will receive callers.

A general invitation will be extended to Pennsylvanians to visit Buffalo on that day and make the demonstration as imposing as possible. It is argued that as New York and Pennsylvania are sister states the latter ought to show more than ordinary energy in her state day demonstration.

The railroad companies are already preparing to run special excursion trains at a low rate of fare from all parts of Pennsylvania.

Libraries Following the Flag.

From the Pittsburg Commercial Gazette.

School teachers have followed the American flag to the Philippines, and now free libraries are following the flag in Porto Rico. The donor, of course, is Andrew Carnegie, who has scattered libraries with a generous hand over the United States and in some districts of Great Briain, and the Porto Ricans have been prompt in accepting the proffered gifts.

The plan at present under contemplation is the erection of a thoroughly equipped library building at San Juan, with a distributing library for all portions of the island, thus warranting an enlargment of the legend to "Free to the People of Porto Rico." The city council of San Juan has already agreed to appropriate $6,000 annually for a maintenance fund, which is a fine showing for a city that has so recently emerged from the shadow of oppression and attendant illiteracy. With free education and free libraries following the flag the work of Americanization is making rapid strides in the possessions acquired as a result of the brief war with Spain.

New Town of Waerhum.

The Lackawanna Coal and Coke company is arranging to spend a half million dollars on the new town it proposes to build in Indiana county, about six miles west of Vintondale, Cambria county. The town will be known as Waerhum, in honor of the president of the Lackawanna Coal and Iron company.

The railroad was completed to the town site last week and the work has begun on two slopes, each of which will descend about 400 feet.

No lots will be sold in the town site, but will be leased to persons desiring to reside there, the company owning the land in fee simple. The improvements are now in progress and it is expected that Waerhum will soon have a population of several thousand people, about 400 of whom are already there.

Killing Fish With Dynamite.

Beech Creek, Aug. 14.—A large quantity of dead fish have been seen during the past week in the Beech Creek. The varieties noticed consist for the most part of suckers and fall fish. Many persons believe that dynamite has been exploded in the water further up the creek. The guilty parties should be sought out and brought to justice.

New Building for Renovo.

Rev. J. J. Gormley, pastor of the Renovo Catholic church, announces that it is his intention to erect a new building for the parochial schools, at no distant date. The site for the proposed structure has not been decided upon, but it may be where the present school is located on Ninth street.

—Rev. Thomas W. Rosensteel, pastor of St. Matthew's Catholic church at Tyrone, has been transferred by Rt. Rev. Richard Phelan, bishop of Pittsburg, to the pastorate of St. Joseph's church, at Sharpsburg, Allegheny county. To succeed him as rector at Tyrone, the Bishop has appointed Rev. Philip Bohan, now assistant pastor of St. John's church, Johnstown. The change will take place Friday of this week.

—The Jersey Shore council Saturday night granted the Jersey Shore Street Railway company the right to operate its lines in the streets of the town.

SANG TO PREVENT PANIC

Coolness of Philadelphia Cricketers Saved Many Lives.

ON BOARD OF WRECKED STEAMER

Women and Children Rescued to the Inspiring Strains of "The Red and the Blue"—Were Jolly in Adversity.

CRAFT WAS SINKING AT THE TIME

BOSTON, Aug. 13.—The coolness and presence of mind of the Philadelphia cricket team, returning from Halifax on the Plant Line steamship Halifax, prevented a panic aboard the vessel Monday morning, and, no doubt, saved many lives.

When the steamer sailed from Halifax early Sunday morning she carried 250 passengers and a cargo of general freight. As she left her pier there was a dense fog, and this continued all day and night. Yesterday morning she reached the mouth of the harbor, and going out of her course, owing to the fog, struck a ledge near Minot's Light. As it was near high tide when she struck and as she floated without great difficulty it was believed at first that she was not damaged seriously. It soon appeared, however, that she was leaking, and as she proceeded up the harbor it was seen that safety demanded that she be run ashore.

When the vessel struck the passengers were in their berths, but the concussion awoke them and immediately there was a wild rush for the deck. The members of the cricket team here displayed a remarkable coolness and presence of mind. They knew that the vessel was even then rapidly sinking and realized what terrible results would follow a panic. They therefore went about among the passengers singing snatches of song, cracking jokes and doing everything to inspire confidence. Still the passengers were most [illegible] and the dense fog only added to their terror.

Tugs were immediately signalled for to take off the passengers, who, scarcely realizing what had occurred, were on the verge of a panic. The tug Sprague and several small boats responded to the vessel's signals, and after some delay the work of transferring the passengers was begun.

While the women were being transferred from the steamer to the tug and the small boats the cricketers gathered on the deck and sang the old University of Pennsylvania's song, "The Red and the Blue." This inspired all with courage and no doubt averted a panic, upon the verge of which the women and children were.

Just as the Sprague left the Halifax the bow had completely disappeared beneath the water and the ship was badly listed to starboard, with the stern, propeller and rudder sticking up in the air. The ship was sinking so fast that the forward deckhouse next disappeared, and when the last of the passengers had been removed the ship as far aft as the funnel was submerged.

On the way up the harbor the Philadelphians kept up the song and the passengers and crew of the steamer Boston on passing the tugboat gave a cheer and the cricketers responded by cheering the Boston and telling them to look out for racers. Among the passengers was Frank Henderson Coyne, at one time captain of the famous Orange Athletic Club's foot ball team. He was among the early risers, and together with Mrs. Coyne, who was as unemotional as her husband, they paced the deck, sipped early coffee and made snapshots.

Captain Coyne said:

"We are grateful to escape with such little inconvenience, and while we deplore the accident, it nevertheless gave both of us a little experience in an actual wreck which is far more realistic than novelists depict it. I feel that the officers did everything in their power to save the ship and make the disagreeable position of the passengers as pleasant as possible."

The Halifax is a steel screw steamship, sailing under British registry. She is 250.3 feet long, 35 feet beam and 21.5 feet deep. Her tonnage is 958. She was built at Glasgow in 1888.

—Lightning played a singular prank at the residence of John Bonnell, Jersey Shore, Saturday. A bolt struck the chimney of the house, and coming down the kitchen flue, tore Mrs. Bonnell's shoe from her right foot and hurled it across the room. Aside from a slight shock, she was uninjured.

Killed Near Antes Fort.

A sad fatality occurred Sunday morning a short distance east of Pine on the P. and E railroad which resulted in the death of William Wise, a young man not quite 16 years old, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Wise, of Loganton. The young man was employed as a clerk in the store of Gheen and Spigelmyer, of Jersey Shore. On Sunday morning he boarded passenger train No. 3 at Jersey Shore station, intending to go to Pine camp meeting. At the curve a short distance west of Achenbach, Wise, who was on the platform of the car, fell from the train landing on the ties and rails of the east bound track. Persons in the car who saw him when he fell notified the trainmen and the train was stopped as quickly as possible and backed up to where the unfortunate young man lay. He was placed on the train in an unconscious condition but died just at the bridge across Bald Eagle creek, a short distance from Lock Haven. Coroner Shoemaker viewed the body and on learning the facts concerning the young man's death decided not to hold an inquest.

He was a member of the United Evangelical church and also a member of the Keystone League of Christian Endeavor. —L. H. Express.

Killed Near Birmingham.

Saturday afternoon Ralph L. Reynolds, of Pennsylvania Furnace, was killed on the railroad a short distance west of Birmingham station. With others he had been in Tyrone during the day, and under the influence of intoxicants walked down the railroad. At the point named he attempted to board a freight train and was thrown to the track and instantly killed, the car wheels passing over his body in a diagonal direction from shoulder to waist. The remains were gathered up and taken to the Graham undertaking establishment in Tyrone and prepared for burial.

Sunday morning the remains were conveyed to Pennsylvania Furnace where the funeral took place at 10 o'clock Monday morning, interment being made at the Graysville cemetery. Deceased was the son of George W. and Anna Reynolds, and was born at Altoona [illegible] August, 1881. He was a carpenter by trade.

The Grange Picnic.

The Grange Encampment and Exhibition committee is completing plans to make the 28th annual gathering, September 14 to 20, more interesting than any held heretofore.

A number of exhibition buildings will be moved so as to bring the exhibit closer together. A number of new features will be introduced in the way of entertainment. It is expected that more tents will be occupied than have been for the past few years, and the plan of the camp will be so arranged as to make camp life more pleasant and comfortable.

The Grange picnic affords an opportunity for an outing not to be found elsewhere, and this year will be largely patronized by campaign parties.

Dropped Dead on the Street.

A. T. James, who was one of the factory inspectors during the Hastings administration, died on the street at Williamsport Monday morning. Mr. James had risen early with the intention of taking one of the morning trains. He went to the post office and was returning when he fell to the sidewalk. Those who rushed to his assistance heard him gasp his name and residence, when he expired. He was taken to his residence. Heart failure was the cause of death. He was 63 years old.

The deceased formerly resided at Philipsburg and on one or two occasions presided at Republican county conventions held at this place.

—Sharpers have a new plan and are working in some parts of this State. They examine the court record in order to get the names of all parties against whom actions are pending and from the the papers on file gain a pretty thorough knowledge of the case. Then they drive to the home of the victim and claim that they are attorneys authorized to compromise the case for a certain sum. As the amount appears reasonable the parties in many cases put up the money. In view of this new fake attorneys who visit parties upon bona fide business had better take along their credentials, or they may be met by a bulldog or a shot-gun.

The Pope Informed of Crispi's Death.

ROME, August 13.—The pope was only informed of the death of Signor Crispi Monday morning. He exclaimed:

"Providence has evidently decreed that I shall be the last of my generation to go. Well, Crispi was a good fighter."

A few moments later the pope was on his knees at his Prie-Dieu praying for the soul of his ancient enemy.

ROYALTY MOURNED.

For the Dead Dowager Empress Frederick of Germany.

EMPEROR WILLIAM AND KING EDWARD

Attend the Requiem Services in Her Honor at Cronberg, Germany on Sunday.

GREAT CROWDS IN ATTENDANCE

CRONBERG, August 12.—People flocked into Cronberg yesterday to see the august personages who would attend the requiem service over the body of Dowager Empress Frederick. Throughout the night and again yesterday, the officers of the regiments of which the dead woman was an honorary colonel had stood guard over the coffin.

From 11 a. m. there was an unbroken stream of carriages arriving from Hamburg, Frankfort and other points, bringing those invited to the solemn ceremony. Considerable bodies of troops, both infantry and cavalry, also arrived.

At 2:30 p. m. the Eightieth Regiment formed along the streets, and the band of the Bockenheim Hussars took its stand opposite the church. Every window, balcony and housetop was filled with people awaiting the arrival of the imperial personages.

Baron Von Reischach, Court Marshal of the dead Dowager Empress, superintended the arrangements. Sir Frank Lascelles, the British Ambassador, was among the first to arrive. He took a seat facing the coffin, which was covered with wreaths. On either side of the coffin were four officers holding the standards of the Empire of Prussia. Between them and the coffin were other officials, rigid and bearing drawn swords.

Gradually the church filled with officers in splendid uniforms and women wearing deep mourning. The congregation included the Duke of Connaught, the Duke of Cambridge and several members of the British royal household, Count Von Buelow, Count Von Waldersee, Dr. Spielhagen and General Von Londiquist.

At 4 o'clock the roll of muffled drums announced the arrival of Emperor William and King Edward, who had driven together from Hamburg. The, Emperor wearing the black uniform of the Empress' Own Posen Hussars, led Queen Alexandra into the church, while King Edward, in blue uniform of the King Edward Prussian Dragoons, conducted Empress Augusta Victoria. Princess Victoria with Crown Prince Frederick William, and a numerous suite, followed.

Their Majesties occupied a pew to the left of the chancel, the one in which the dead Dowager Empress used to sit, while grouped around the chancel stood the other personages mentioned, together with Prince Adelbert of Prussia, Prince and Princess Schaumburg-Lippe, the hereditary Prince of Saxe-Meiningen, Prince and Princess Charles of Hesse, the Grand Duke of Baden, the Crown Prince and Princess of Greece, with their children, and the Prince of Reuss, together with the suites of all.

At the conclusion Empress Augusta Victoria and Queen Alexandra drove in a victoria to Hamburg, the Emperor and King following in a second carriage. The streets were congested with sightseers long after the imperial and royal personages departed.

He's Not Afraid of Snakes.

Antonio Adabio, foreman of a gang of Italian track hands on the New York Central railroad at Jersey Shore, has no fear of rattlesnakes. Their bites have no more effect upon him than those of mosquitoes. Last fall Adabio stepped on a snake, which sunk its fangs into the calf of his leg. The bite did not swell a particle, nor in any way affect the Italian. Monday morning while at work near Jersey Shore Adabio's men came upon a den of snakes. The charmed foreman killed eleven of them, two of which buried their fangs into his legs repeatedly. Blood filled the wounds, but Adabio refused to accept medical aid and was feeling as well as usual yesterday.—Lock Haven Democrat.

Down Steep Grade Into a Tree.

Thursday while a train was coming down the White Deer Valley railroad from the Forest Iron works, the engine got beyond control on the heavy grade. The cars struck a tree which had been blown across the track. The trucks of the cars were wrecked and iron rails and nail kegs flew in all directions. Superintendent E. W. Robinson jumped and had his ankle sprained. Four other men were more or less seriously injured. The enginemen jumped and escaped with their lives.—L. H. Democrat.

The Two Great Railroads.

The Philadelphia Inquirer publishes the following:

"The Pennsylvania and the New York Central may give Pittsburg additional traffic facilities. The latter road reached as far as Patton, Pa., which is in a reasonably short distance of Pittsburg. A working agreement exists with Pennsylvania whereby if N. Y. Central wishes to build in that section an opportunity for building the line will first be given to Pennsylvania on condition that the latter company will grant the joint use of the new mileage to New York Central an favorable terms.

"The New York Central now proposes to build a new branch in connection with its Beech Creek division. The Beech Creek extension railroad, owned by Pennsylvania and running from Beech Creek through Clearfield and Clinton counties to Keating, a distance of about fifty six miles has been leased from that company, At Keating connection will be made with the Philadelphia and Erie branch of Pennsylvania. This arrangement will secure an outlet for some valuable coal properties.

Within the past few months Duluth lumbermen have invested not less than [illegible] in pine in the west and south.

The brute backed off a few feet and, lowering its head and bellowing with rage, charged on Sawyer, catching him on the horns and tossing him six feet in the air. Sawyer alighted astride the bull's back with tremendous force and rolled off. Before he regained his feet the infuriated animal rolled him over several times goring him in several places. Sawyer finally managed to get up and made for a six rail fence, which he cleared at a single bound. His injuries are more painful han serious.

DUST ALONG RAILROADS.

An Experiment by the Pennsylvania Company Proving Successful.

The Philadelphia Ledger says: From the Pennsylvania railroad comes a most unique and yet simple scheme for solving the dust problem, which is a more or less pressing question with the management on all railroads. It consists in covering the ground and banks along the tracks, where the sand is exposed, with sweepings from city streets and dirt from cattle stables and yards. The grains of corn, oats, wheat and other seeds in the refuse take root in the ground, and within a short time spring up, furnishing a covering over the sand and gravel, which prevents the sweep of the train from picking up the dust, and where it is carried along as in passing road crossings, the growth catches the particles before they are carried very far. This scheme cannot be said to entirely do away with the dust nuisance, but it goes far enough in this direction to induce the railroad to carry it out in a more or less modified form all along its lines.

The experiment was first tried on the Atlantic City branch of the Pennsylvania line. Ever since that resort became the mecca of summer tourists to the seashore the clouds of dust and sand which, until within the past year or two, followed in the wake of every train flying across New Jersey, had been a serious problem with the railroads in that state. Particularly was the problem a pressing one to the Pennsylvania line, and, at different times, various methods were resorted to, to make traveling to the public more comfortable. One of these was an experiment, similar to the one now being made by the Chicago and Northwestern railway, in sprinkling the tracks with oil. to lay the dust, but it was not a success. Finally the latest scheme was determined upon. The idea came through sodding some of the banks along other branches of the line, with the object of making the stations more attractive to the public. The department of maintenance of way found that the placing of grass sod along the tracks near these stations minimized considerably the dust nuisance in the vicinity of those places. The conclusion was drawn that if grass could be made to grow along the tracks in New Jersey a way of escape from the nuisance in that state would be offered.

Carload after carload of street dirt procured in Camden and vicinity, as well as sweepings from stables and yards, were scattered along the Atlantic City branch. Within a few weeks the grains and seeds in the dirt, which had been mixed with the sand, in which latter nothing would take root before, sprouted and grew along the tracks, furnishing a green grassy covering for the banks, particularly in the cuts along the line, from which the flying trains drew most of the dust particles. The growth along the banks also prevent the rain from washing the dirt into the gutters, along the ties and onto the rails. Now the gutters and ditches are in places being paved.

HOOD'S PILLS are the best cathartic.

Former Pennsylvanian Dead.

The sad intelligence has been received here of the death of Dr. W. W. Potter, of Holland, Brown county, Wisconsin, a former Pennsylvania man, who was a full cousin of Mrs. Katherine Curtin, the late Capt. W. W. Potter and the late Dr. George L. Potter, all of this place.

His death occurred at the Wisconsin Veterans Home hospital near Waupaca, Wis., Aug. 3, of cancer of the stomach.

Dr. Potter was a genial gentleman, musical, and fond of society, but never married, and having no close family ties his remains were laid to rest in the Veterans' Home cemetery, on the shore of Rainbow lake, to await the final reunion.

Sunbeam Camp.

A jolly crowd of young people who have styled themselves the "Sunbeams" left Friday for Butler's woods near Howard where they will camp for the next ten days. The party consists of Misses May Taylor, Rose and Mame Fox, Katherine Lieb, Bessie Musser, Blanche Underwood, and Messrs. Russell Blair, Sam Taylor, Charley Mensch, and John McMurray and Sam Lafferty, of Altoona. Mr. McMurray is taking this outing for the benefit of his health which has been bad for some time.

Russell Blair is to be captain of the camp and Mannie Green is to do the cooking.

is very careful about her churn. She scalds it throughly after using, and gives it a sun bath to sweeten it. She knows that if her churn is sour it will taint the butter that is made in it. The stomach is a churn. In the stomach and digestive and nutritive tracts are performed processes which are exactly akin to the churning of butter. Is it not apparent then that if this stomach churn is "sour" it sours all which is put into it? The evil of a foul stomach is not the bad taste in the mouth and the foul breath caused by it, but the corruption of the pure current of the blood and the dissemination of disease throughout the body. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery makes the sour stomach sweet. It does for the stomach what the washing and sun bath do for the churn—absolutely removes every tainting or corrupting element. "Golden Medical Discovery" contains no alcohol, whisky or other intoxicant and no narcotic.

Injured by a Premature Blast.

Patsey Sabat, an Italian laborer, was seriously injured this morning at 9 o'clock by a premature blast while at work at Steven s stone quarry up Buffalo Run. He was about to set off what is known as a pop blast. He had loaded the hole with powder and placed a dynamite cap therein and was tamping it down with an iron bar when the explosion took place. Both his hands were badly lacerated and his face an eyes were burned by the powder. He was taken to the Lock Haven hospital this afternoon.

Church Picnic at Snow Shoe.

The annual picnic of St. Mary's Catholic church at Snow Shoe, which has come to be an event that is looked forward to with pleasurable anticipation by the people of that entire community will be held on Saturday, August 24th.

The arrangement will be under the direction of the Ancient Order of Hibernians and you may rest assured that they will be carried out. The Bellefonte orchestra is to furnish the music for dancing.

Engagement Announced.

Mrs. Josephine Cruse has announced the engagement of her daughter, Mary, to Mr. S. Kline Woodring. The bride is a very pretty and attractive young lady and is the only daughter of the late Andrew J. Cruse, in his lifetime, a prominent business man of this city. The groom is a rising young attorney at the Centre county bar and both are very popular among a large circle of friends. The wedding will take place this fall.

Didn't Laud Administration.

The following ticket was nominated at Tuesday's Huntingdon county Republican convention; Sheriff, John A. Steel; director of the poor, Charles K. Horton; corner, Dr. G. G. Harmon; county surveyor, H. H. Swoope. J. F. Schoch and John Philips were elected delegates to the State convention. The most conspicuous feature of the convention was its failure to adopt the usual commendatory resolutions landing the National and State administrations.

HIS START IN LIFE.

"DOC" HARTMAN AND HIS WONDERFUL GREASE ERADICATOR.

With Soap Candles and Bottles of Rainwater He Fooled the Public and Laid the Foundations of a Substantial Fortune.

"Talk about your self made men," said an old timer among a party of horsemen gathered in one of the speedway inns, "I don't think any of 'em can equal the early experiences of Tim Hartman, who died in St. Louis many years ago, leaving nearly a million dollars to be fought over by his heirs. He made his first good sized pile on patent medicines, then he picked up a great deal more on real estate, and at last he rounded out with speculation in Montana copper, but he was known as 'Doc' Hartman to the time of his death by his few intimate friends.

"But the story that I'm going to tell, and the one which he often told himself, concerns his very earliest experiences in the accumulation of money. Tim Hartman started life with $1. He kicked around as a barefooted boy—and a pretty mean one, too—in a little town in Connecticut until he was 18 years old, and at that time he had become so fresh and so full of wind and general cussedness that his father one day told him he was no good, never had been and never would amount to a picayune. The old gentleman, just to carry out the bluff, told Tim that he had a good mind to cut him off with a dollar and make him earn his own living. Tim straightened up and called the bluff. He told the old man that he would take the dollar and get out then and there and hustle for himself. The old man handed him a crisp $1 bill and told him that he'd be glad to see him make a fortune with it.

"The first thing that cuss did was to go about in a few back yards that he knew of and gather together a lot of empty bottles which were of no use to anybody. Then, for 10 cents, he bought a large cake of a kind of white soap that was then, and still is, on the market. He melted this soap and, after borrowing an ancient pair of candle molds from an old granny in the neighborhood, made two beautiful looking candles of soap. He next filled his bottles full of choice rainwater. Then he made for himself one of those little three legged tables like the chuck-a-luck and shell game men use outside the circus, and struck out on foot for a county fair that was being held about 40 miles away.

"When he got there, he put up his little table outside the grounds, where the crowd was pretty thick, lighted one of his soap candles and began to extol the virtues of 'Dr. Hartman's Famous Grease Eradicator,' contained in the bottles set before him.

"'Now, ladies and gentlemen,' he would shout in a stentorian but plausible voice, 'this marvelous liquid, so harmless that it can be drunk with impunity by the smallest infant and yet so penetrating that it will seek out and destroy stains and discolorations from the most refractory substance, was discovered by accident by the famous scientist, Dr. Hartman, the eminent scholar, while he was wandering o'er the wilds of Patagonia. It is colorless, you see, as the waters from heaven, and yet observe the effects of its startling properties!'

"At this point Tim would reach for his soap candle and, inverting it, would smear a lot of the grease over the sleeve of his coat.

"'Now, every one of you knows, ladies and gentlemen,' he would continue, reaching over and uncorking a bottle of his rainwater, 'that there is nothing so penetrating and ineffaceable as the grease from a candle, and yet it is a stain that we are all likely to suffer almost every evening of our lives while toying with that common article of the household, the candle. You will observe that my sleeve is smeared with the annoying substance. Behold'—

"Here that country bred fakir would spill a couple of drops of his rainwater on the soap and with a rub or two would produce a beautiful lather. Another swipe and the soap would have entirely disappeared from the sleeve, leaving not a trace.

"'Now, we make this famous eradicator in such enormous quantities,' Tim would continue, 'that in order to introduce it into every home in this broad land we will dispense with it at the absurdly low price of 5 cents, a nickel a bottle. Step right up! Step right up!'

"Then, when the public was surging forward to purchase the rainwater, Tim would pause occasionally to drink a bottle of it, just to show that it was absolutely harmless.

"Well, the stuff went like hot cakes. When Tim's bottles were all exhausted, he bought more, and when the fair was over he went to another and another until he had traveled all over the country. Then, in some way or other, I don't know how, he got hold of some old patent medicine, and, being a genius, of course he made a big go of it. So that's the way Tim Hartman almost became a millionaire."—New York Times.

—Two men named Kephart and Logan, employed at Wykoff's lumber camp, on Hyner run, a few days ago were going up the mountain, when they saw a large rattlesnake, which they killed. A short distance further up they ran into a den of the reptiles and after a battle of half an hour killed 14 more.

—Because the prisoners in the Tioga county jail would not tell Sheriff VanDusen who broke a window, he put all the inmates on a milk and water diet Thursday. The two offenders confessed.

Will O' The Wisp.

WOMEN WHO ARE LED ASTRAY BY MISCHIEVOUS MARSH FIRES.

Illustrative of the baneful power of the marsh fire, there is told the story of a woman who lost her way. She turned in this direction and in that, hopelessly puzzled as to her whereabouts in the murky night. Presently ahead of her she saw the gleam of a light. At once she saw in fancy the picture of home, the lamp in the window, the cozy comfort of those under the shelter of the protecting roof, "curtained and closed and warm." Steadfastly she moved towards the light. But as she moved it seemed to change its position. It was always a little farther away from her and presently when she sank down exhausted in a swamp the light disappeared altogether.

Whatever truth there may be in the story, it forcibly illustrates the career of many a woman who has followed the marsh fire of love in the belief that it led to home and comfort and found herself at last exhausted and deceived.

IT'S A BITTER LESSON

learned by many a woman who thought love all-sufficient, that love alone cannot be the foundation of the home. It needs health. Strange as it may seem the beautiful loving woman who is weak may lose the love of the husband for whom she broke all home ties, while on the other hand a woman who has no greater dower than robust health may win and hold the love of her husband past all possibility of loss. The first requisite of marriage is health. The wife's first necessity is health. Health must be the mother's or she will know no happiness in her children. What makes ill-health so common among women? Why do they suffer with headache, backache and pains past description? These sufferings are in general caused by disease of the delicate womanly organs, and they are in general curable by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

"I take great pleasure in writing you what great benefit your 'Favorite Prescription,' 'Golden Medical Discovery' and 'Pleasant Pellets' have done me," says Mrs. P. A. Graham, of 617 Race St., New Orleans, La. "I have been a constant sufferer for the last eight years with female weakness, nervous and general debility, trying everything I could find to help me, but to no avail. Have been treated by several country physicians, and also had some of the best city physicians prescribe for me. They all said my case was incurable and was a chronic disease of long standing, but, thanks be to God and your great medicine, I have found relief at last, and soon will be cured sound and well again. I have taken three bottles of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and two of 'Golden Medical Discovery' and two vials of his 'Pleasant Pellets.' I can't describe in words how much benefit I have received from them. I think your medicine is the best in the world for female diseases and for the blood. I think 'Favorite Prescription' is the best medicine made for women. I feel safe in recommending Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery to any one suffering from the effect of impure blood and his 'Favorite Prescription' for female weakness."

"THE LAST SHALL BE FIRST."

How many times that saying is illustrated by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It's the last thing which is tried and the first to help. It's often the last resort of hopeless women and the first medicine to claim their gratitude by an absolute emancipation from the thraldom of disease.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription makes weak women strong, sick women well. It establishes womanly regularity, stops enfeebling drains, heals inflammation and ulceration and cures female weakness.

"I suffered for six years with ovarian trouble," writes Mrs. E. Waite, of (Lake View Postoffice), Chicago, Ill. "Sometimes I could hardly walk, and when I had to cough it felt as though a knife was cutting me. My hands and feet were cold all the time. I had such a tired feeling and such a poor appetite, and when I went to bed I slept only about two hours at a time. A friend advised me to use Doctor Pierce's medicines, for they had helped her; so I got a bottle of 'Favorite Prescription' and by the time I had used two bottles I felt so much better that I continued until I had taken eight bottles of 'Favorite Prescription' and one of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and now I am so well that my friends remark how well I am looking. I can go to bed now and sleep till morning. My appetite is splendid and all that tired feeling has left me. I hope others will do as I have done—just give Dr. Pierce's medicines a fair trial, and they will be sure to derive much benefit, as I have. I am so thankful to think I am so well."

WHAT WELL WOMEN SAY.

Here a few brief statements culled from letters of women cured by the use Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription:

"I feel like a different being and I look well."—Mrs. Maggie Spelts, 410 Eighth Street, Mount Vernon, Posey Co., Ind.

"When I think how I was five years ago and how I am now, I say, God bless Dr. Pierce's work for women. I have had no return of my weakness and am well and hearty."—Mrs. Fred Kempson, Cambria, Hillsdale Co., Mich., Box 57.

"Two bottles of 'Favorite Prescription' and one of 'Golden Medical Discovery' made a new woman of me." —Mrs. C. Nelson, Chemawa, Marion Co., Oregon.

There is no alcohol in "Favorite Prescription" and it is altogether free from opium, cocaine and all other narcotics.

Do not allow the dealer to push off on you a substitute for "Favorite Prescription" claiming that it is "just as good." The record of its cures and the testimony of thousands of women prove that there is nothing "just as good" as "Favorite Prescription" for weak and sickly women.

A MOTHER'S RING.

Binds Nuptial Knot for Claude Herr and Miss Lenore Krape.

With the ring which his mother wore when she was married, Claude F. Herr, sealed the marriage vow with Miss Lenore Krape Thursday evening at Salona. The ceremony was solemnized at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. Krape at 8 o'clock by Rev. M. J. Runyan, who was assisted by Rev. Samuel Creighton. At 8 o'clock, as the notes pealed forth under the manipulation of the deft fingers of Miss Mabel Buffington of Jersey Shore, the bridal partly entered the parlor. The attendants to the bride were Miss Lulu Buffington, of Jersey Shore, as maid of honor; Misses May and Grace King, of Williamsport, Miss Jean Hyatt and Miss Bessie Krape, of Salona, as maids, and Miss Emma Thompson, of Salona, as flower girl. usell Krape, brother of the bride, was the best man.

The bride carried in her hand a white satin prayer book, She wore a dress of white organdie. The maid of honor was attired in white oagandie over yellow and the maids' dresses were white. All carried bouquets of daisies, in keeping with the beautiful white and gold decorations of the rooms.

After congratulations had been extended by the guests a bountiful supper was served. Later in the evening Mr. and Mrs. Herr took up their abode in their newly furnished house, to which they are accompanied by the best wishes of their many friends. The bride's presents were of a great variety.

J. C. Rumberger and family and W. Harrison Walker, of this place, were among the guests present from a distance.

Soda that Satisfies.

Have you ever noticed that some soda water doesn't satisfy one's thirst. That's because the water is too lightly charged and is flat and dead, or is too heavily charged and is nearly all gas and foam, or s not sufficiently cooled, or else the syrups are deficient in quality or quantity.

Not so with our soda; our new carbonater keeps the water uniformly charged to the correct pressure; we use an abundance of ice; our syrups are the best that money can buy and we use them liberally. Our soda is extra good and always the same—that's why people go out of their way for it.

It Takes a Remedy of Uncommon Merit to Draw the Unqualified Praise of a Successful Practicing Physician.

Dr. J. W. Bates of Corfu, N. Y., states: "A most remarkable case has come under my hands of late and has fully convinced me of the wonderful power of Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills over diseases of the nerves.

"A young lady who was treated for over two years for epilepsy by two doctors was given up to die. I found that her sickness was not epilepsy, but nervous troubles, due to menstrual derangements, and prescribed four of Dr. Chase's Nerve Pills a day, after meals and at bed-time. Since that time she has not had a single bad spell. Her health has rapidly improved, she has gained about fifteen pounds in weight, and I do not hesitate to state that Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills have saved her life and restored her to health."

Died from Rattlesnake Bite.

Nellie, the 2-year-old daughter of Jesse Noyes, of the Sheridan farm, near Pleasantville, Forest county, died Sunday afternoon from the effects of the bite of a rattlesnake or copperhead. The child left the house to play in the yard and a moment later her mother heard her cream and when she reached her the child was unconscious. Two red punctures were found in the calf of the leg a short distance above the ankle and the limb was commencing to swell. The father jabbed a knife into the wound but was unable to draw blood. Dr. Luphes was summoned and all the known remedies for poisonous snake bites were tried in vain and the leg swelled to three times its natural size and finally turned black. The child died about 5 o'clock without having regained consciousness. This is the first instance of death resulting from snake bite that has been known in this section for many years. In fact we recall none.—Forest Republican.

Scranton's Good Example.

From the Philadelphia Press.

The councils of Scranton do not appear to have experienced any difficulty in finding a way to make the corporations pay the city something for the privileges they enjoy. The members of councils just sat right down and resolved to slap on a tax. The ordinance provides for a tax of 5 per cent. on the gross receipts of street railway companies, and gas and water companies while the steam heat, electric light and telephone companies must pay 2 per cent. of their gross receipts. The water company had some friends in council, who protested that 5 per cent. was too much. This was answered by the assertion that there was not a property in the city that was not taxed more than than 5 per cent. of its earning capacity, The houses in which citizens lived are taxed more than that, and no reason could be found why the water companies or other corporations enjoying public privileges should escape a just taxation.

THE BUSINESS OUTLOOK.

The Bulk of the Week's Business Is Quite Large.

COLLECTIONS CONTINUE GOOD

Relief is Felt in All Departments of the Iron and Steel Industry Now that Uncertainty is Ended and the Positions of Contestants Made Clear.

THE PRICE OF WHEAT IS STRONGER

NEW YORK, August 10.—R. G. Dun & Company's Weekly Review of Trade today says:

There is no complaint from any part of the country over the volume of current distribution of merchandise, and what hesitation is observed in general trade is chiefly due to the uncertainty as to the duration of the labor troubles in the steel manufacture. Collections continue good, better weather has helped the agricultural classes, money is easy, and stocks of merchandise carried are not above the average for this season of the year, particularly in the west and southwest. Relief is felt in all departments of the iron and steel industry now that uncertainty is ended and the position of the contestants made clear. Now the issue must be determined permanently, and a settled condition will greatly facilitate operations. Structural, wire and plate mills are not affected, and the production of rails will not be materially curtailed. Supplies of bars and tubes will be restricted and quotations in these lines tend to follow the advance already secured for sheets and hoops. A bad feature is the increased importation of tin plates, which had been manufactured in sufficient quantity to about meet the domestic demand, imports in the fiscal year being valued at only $3,770,062, against $35,746,920 ten years ago. Purchasers of many forms of finished steel are showing much eagerness to place contracts, while, on the other hand, pig iron is in less urgent request.

Having no further ammunition in heat and drouth reports for hoisting prices, speculators have turned suddenly to the other extreme and demonstrate that early frosts threaten all late planted corn. The result has been spot quotations at this city of more than 60 cents all the week and the practical elimination of exporters from domestic markets.

A healthy demand from domestic millers and phenomenal Atlantic exports give strength to prices of wheat. As the season advances it becomes more apparent that foreign crop losses will necessitate unprecedented shipments from the United States and with the settlement of the strike on the Pacific coast there will be a movement of great magnitude.

Failures for the week were 173 in the United States against 177 last year, and 31 in Canada against 23 last year.

Ben Record's Dog.

From the Punxatawney Spirit,

"You know Ben Record's dog, Dewey, don't you?" asked Des Freas yesterday. "He belongs to the Pointer breed. Say, that's a little the smartest dog in this country. You know this dog ordinance that requires all dogs to be muzzled? Well, Dewey knows all about that, too, and he also knows the officer who enforces the law, George Spencer. When Dewey has his muzzle on he will jog along past George Spencer and pretend he doesn't see him at all. But if he happened to see Spencer four blocks away when he isn't wearing his muzzle, he will dodge into an alley and scoot for home. Yesterday—now I want you to listen to this—yesterday, he was running along beside Record's big delivery wagon, when he saw Spencer. Well, sir, that dog just put his paw up to his nose, discovered that his muzzle was not there, and then gave a run and jump into the wagon, and kept himself hidden behind the side boards until the officer was out of sight. He's actually the smartest dog I ever saw."

A Mt. Carmel, Ill., fisherman has invented an ingenious method of fishing, to wit: Secure a glass jar (an ordinary half gallon fruit jar will answer) and fill it with water. Put in a dozen minnows. Then tie a piece of parchment over the mouth of the jar, stick it full of pin holes, and lower in the river where you want to fish. Game fish will be attracted by the minnows and will fairly swarm about the jar. They will stay there and in a day or two become very hungry. Then drop your hook, baited with a minnow, among them and you can catch every fish around the jar as fast as you can pull them out.

The Man Without a Stomach.

From the New York Sun.

Will the stomach become a rudimentary organ, lagging superfluous, when the human machine is trimmed and braced for the fiercer competitions that must come when the world is over-peopled? Look at Mr. Karl Kruger, gardener, Chicago. Last spring he was starving to death with cancer of the stomach. April 20 the surgeons took out his stomach in exactly eighty minutes. For some time naturally, he mortified the flesh. He lived on prepared foods. A cheap diet, if not a generous one. The makers were only too glad to purvey for such a patient. "Why, our food is so healthful and nourishing that a man doesn't need any stomach to thrive on it." The advertisement was sublime.

And the man did thrive. He is thriving still. He doesn't miss his stomach and he doesn't miss a meal. He has passed beyond the patent food stage. He has coffee and white bread and butter for breakfast; the same for dinner, with a dish of potatoes, if he feels like it; and tea, white bread and butter and potatoes for supper. He sleeps like a top; "like a rock," he says. Necessarily he is free from horrible fevered dreams, those children of indigestion and over-feeding. He falls asleep as soon as he lies down. For him no mnemonic drill, no vain attempts to keep his mind from dwelling on the fact that he has one, no crazy efforts at "relaxation." The sleep of the stomachless is sweet.

Nor do such longings as are said to possess the wooden-legged come to him. He doesn't mourn the loss of his digestion-sac. "I simply eat and that's all there is to it," he says; "I cannot tell whether I have a stomach or not." O thrice fortunate, three thousand times fortunate Karl Kruger, healthiest of men! Worthy of all the wealth which the dime museum men are eager to bestow upon him. "And then we attached this duodenum directly to the œsophagus," the surgeons murmur to the admiring visitors. And Karl smiles and says he is ready for his bread and butter and potatoes.

Weight at time of operation, ninety-six pounds. Present weight, 160 pounds And still he gains, and still the wonder grows.

The vegetarians chuckle. Kruger eats no meat; therefore he lives. Perhaps the illation is a little weak. When we are all without stomachs, we shall all become vegetarians. Perhaps not very much sooner.

A Sad Accident.

From the Clearfield Raftsman's Journal.

It was the daily habit of little Pearl Livingstone, daughter of Samuel Livingstone, of Woodland, to go to meet her papa, who came from his work at the lower yards between 10 and 11 o'clock each forenoon. Tiny little hands were always extended to papa at a point near the Pennsylvania railroad depot, and no accident was ever dreamed of. As usual the little pet left mamma Tuesday morning, went to the place where she had often met papa before, but he was not there. Child like the baby girl sat herself down on the end of a railroad tie to await his appearance. But a moment elapsed until the passenger train from Tyrone came flying on the down grade and the engineer saw the little form less than four rods ahead. To stop the train was impossible, and luckily the engine passed without striking, but the projecting steps of the first car struck the babe squarely on the back of the head and the little form was thrown twenty feet, and when picked up by the engineer, was found to have a terrible gash cut where the step had struck her. She was taken to her home and we learn that her recovery is possible. The trainmen were the first to render assistance, and every eye was filled with tears as they looked upon the prostrate form of the little one, the victim of an accident for which they were in no way responsible.

Killed by Falling Pole.

Charles Myers, formerly of Williamsport, foreman of a gang of linemen employed by the Central Pennsylvania Telephone company, of Wilkesbarre, was killed Saturday morning at Parsons. Mr. Myers and seven others were erecting a telephone line from the Parsons electric light station to the Lehigh Valley colliery at Green Ridge. When this accident happened the men were in the act of raising a heavy pole with the aid of pike poles. They had succeeded in getting it about half way up when one of the pikes slipped and the pole came down with a crash, striking Mr. Myers on the head, dashing out his brains and causing instant death.

Fire at Glen Union.

About 1 o'clock Wednesday morning the coal shed and the sand house of the Glen Union Lumber company at Glen Union, were destroyed by fire. The origin is not definitely known. The mill was in great danger, but its being very damp from the heavy rain earlier in the night, is what prevented the flames from communicating to it. The coal shed was large enough to hold 50 tons of coal. There were about five tons in the building. The sand house was a small building.

REPUBLICAN COUNTY TICKET.

FOR PROTHONOTARY,
EDWARD C. McKINLEY,
of Bogg's Twp.

EDITORIAL.

"Judge Love is the recognized leader of the Quay forces in Centre county."—John Hamilton to the Republican county convention, July 30, 1901.

FOR the information of those who do not know, we desire to say that there are three recognized Quay organs in Centre county—the Democratic Watchman and two others.

NOW HEAR the Democrats howl because the extortionate automobile makers have raised the price of their machines $100, thus robbing the common people of one of the very necessities of life.

IT is a stubborn fact that the Cubans are not showing their gratitude to our country by purchasing American goods. Statistics show that both Germany and England are selling more cotton goods in Cuba than we are, and the German and English sales are increasing in Cuba while ours are decreasing.

THE lynching epidemic has been both violent and wide spread this summer and a cure and sure preventative is yet to be discovered and more over is not likely to be until that revolutionary ruffian, Tillman, of South Carolina, and blackguards of his stripe are removed from the surface of the earth.

OUT in Lincoln, Nebraska, part of the population prayed for rain and the other part fired bombs to produce it, while the Weather Bureau predicted fair weather. Now the three are scrapping as to which brought on the storm. In our opinion the Weather Bureau has the best of the argument since we know from experience that its fair weather predictions are most generally followed by storms.

"RIPPER" MEEK.

Recent events have established the fact that Editor P. Gray Meek, of the Democratic Watchman, is about the cheapest piece of old political bric-a-brac now for sale on the political bargain counter. He has been on all sides of every political question and wherever you find him you may be sure that he is paid some consideration for his whereabouts. He has done so much trading and has sold himself so often that he has really become a low-priced commodity in political commerce. For instance, to cite an instance in substantiation of the accuracy of the assertion, there was a law suit in the Centre county Court some time ago in which one of the interested parties was a near relative of Editor Meek. The Judge decided the case adversely to the interest of Editor Meek's relative and for many months after the Democratic Watchman was persistently bitter in its attacks upon Judge Love and repeatedly held him up to scorn for deciding the case against the Meek interests. When one read the Watchman they found Editor Meek's opinion of Judge Love expressed in the most elaborate terms of vituperation and abuse.

Now to show what a small consideration it takes to purchase Editor Meek and control his sentiments, we will give but one instance: Governor Stone, through his Secretary of the Commonwealth, is having the Constitutional Amendment, to be voted on this fall, advertised in the newspaper of the State in conformity with the requirements of the law. This patronage for Centre county, which amounts to $50 to $275 for a three-quarter column of paper space, Governor Stone placed in the hands of Judge Love, who Oleo Hamilton said before the recent Republican county convention is "the recognized leader of the Quay forces in Centre county." Love selected for the favor the three most inconsequent papers of the county, one of them edited by a dear old maid with a tape worm, which has placed her in position to call herself and companion by the editorial term "we"; the other is Oleo Hamilton's personal organ, which is also the mouth-piece of the State College, and is seldom seen outside of that borough except through the medium of free sample copy distribution; the third is Editor Meek's organ. This State patronage which will amount all told to a modest sum to be filched out of the State Treasury for nothing, was placed in Judge Love's hands to help him in his last political contest in Centre county. Editor Meek has been Judge Love's bitterest enemy and vilifier, but for the consideration of perhaps at the most $275, to be paid from the State Treasury, so that it will cost Love nothing, Meek agrees to quit telling the truth about Love and become one of his supporters and at the same time "rip up" Love's bete noire—General Hastings. Anybody who read the issue of the Watchman of the Friday following the recent Republican county convention could readily see how Editor Meek was earning his bribe given by Love for abuse of Hastings. Was it not a pretty cheap transaction?

Again, when the Democrats and Independent Republican legislators at Harrisburg in January last, had hopes of organizing the House and controlling its patronage Editor Meek was on hand professing to be the greatest reformer of them all and incidently laying his plans to be elected resident clerk of the House. Until Marshall was elected Speaker, Editor Meek did the great reform act, but with the hope of personal gain gone with the election of Marshall his reform spasm spent itself and he proceeded to cast his lines in another direction where substantial consideration rewarded valuable service.

When the Quay forces came to pass the obnoxious "ripper" bill, Editor Meek became one of their cheap hirelings to help "round up" the purchasable Democratic contingent. As a Quay employee at Harrisburg he was indefatigable in his efforts to push the "ripper" bill through. He knew, however, it would be his political ruination to have this known at home, so while he was doing yeoman service for the Quay machine at Harrisburg, his paper, the Democratic Watchman, was boiling over with indignation against the "ripper" bill and its sponsers, in editorials written between times by Editor Meek himself at Harrisburg while he was button-holing weak-kneed Democratic members to ascertain their price and report to the Quay management. He was as much known in Harrisburg as one of the Quay agents as Senator Haines, of York county, the Meadville preacher or the Schuylkill county Judas. Editor Meek was Dr. Quay Jeykl in Harrisburg but he was the pure Mr. Hyde in Centre county. Was he in such double-dealing for his health?

Because Senator Heinle had the manhood to stand up and resist every temptation and did nothing but the old fashioned duty of being true to his constituency and faithful to their interests while in Harrisburg, Ripper Meek would seek to discredit him among his people, and to the leaders of the State Democracy. Ripper Meek is already arranging to prevent if he can Senator Heinle's return to the State Senate should he ask for a re-election. The Democratic Watchman is the only paper in the Senatorial district that did not have a good word to say for Heinle. Why? Because Heinle is a staunch anti-machine Democrat and Ripper Meek is a subsidized Quay adherent.

The Democracy of the State is trying to pull itself together so as to make a respectable showing in the campaign this fall and great efforts for party harmony are being made over the State. The Quay-Democratic contingent in Philadelphia is headed by Ryan and Donnelly who are an annex to the Quay machine. They are determined to divide the Democrats in the State in order to help the Quay machine. Everybody who knows anything about present political conditions knows that Ripper Meek is their hired agent in Centre county. He flatters Ex-Governor Pattison in his paper but he is a Ryan-Donnelly follower and will stand by them. Those who watch the trend of events at the Democratic State convention in session today at the State Capital will find "Ripper" Meek with the Ryan-Donnelly gang, struggling hard to disrupt the Democratic party, while the columns of the Democratic Watchman will be slopping over with pleas for harmony. Is "Ripper" Meek actuated by love in this dual role? Isn't it likely that there is a "consideration" of influential weight? Of one thing we are assured, "Ripper" Meek will not be able to influence the Centre county delegates to the State Convention for his cronies Ryan and Donnelly. The Centre county delegation—John Smith, of Spring Mills; Ellis Shaffer, of Madisonburg; John C. Rowe, of Philipsburg, and D. R. Wilson, of Howard—are Democrats loyal and true and as such cannot do anything that will tend to favor the Quay machine. "Ripper" Meek will have to do his machine political proselyting among delegates from other counties. His home representatives are safe from his persuasive influence.

Let the Republicans of Centre county know that Love "the acknowledged leader of the Quay forces in Centre county" and his few retainers have not enough in themselves to down the Independent Republicans of the county, and that to reinforce Love, Hamilton and Chambers, the Quay machine have secured the services of "Ripper" Meek, and that hereafter Love's organ and Quay's organ in Centre county will be the Democratic Watchman and Meek himself the field marshal for the Love and Hamilton forces. The fruit of the machine plum tree did the turn.

MOST Republicans agree that there really ought to be some changes in our tariff laws. But experience has shown that a few changes cannot be made without opening up the whole tariff question, disrupting business conditions and causing heavy losses. Better let well enough alone.

IF HE COULD SEE HIMSELF AS OTHERS SEE HIM.

BECOMING indeed is it for John Hamilton to speak of "subserviency and prostitution of manhood." He knows all about it. A better illustration of the full meaning of both terms than just Oleo Hamilton himself is not to be found. His record as Secretary of Agriculture tells the story of his abject "subserviency" to the will of political and official masters. The contempt with which he is regarded by the honest and self-respecting citizens of his home county is the price he paid for the "prostitution" of his manhood. And yet, this remnant of a once honest and honorable man has the effrontery to attack the personal character and question the political integrity of those whose public records are clean and above reproach, whose honor is unsullied, whose neighbors and fellow citizens respect and esteem. If he could but see himself as others see him what a spectacle of abject "subserviency and prostitution of manhood" would meet his vision.

AN ECHO FROM ELKINS' HOME COUNTY.

The Indiana County "Gazette."

The address delivered by Ex-Governor Daniel H. Hastings before the Republican convention of Centre county appears in another part of this paper and is well worth any one's reading. It shows up clearly the crimes against freedom, law and order which the selfish and revengeful domination of the Quay machine has committed in the name of the grand old Republican party, and points, in no uncertain language, the way to a better and more patriotic condition of affairs. The fact that the address was cheered to the echo, and that the resolutions which Mr. Hastings introduced were adopted with but two dissenting votes (and those were cast by officeholders under the machine), shows the feeling of Centre county Republicans. And the feeling is growing, all over the State, that honest men will have to get together to turn the rascals out.

A RECKONING TO COME.

SOME day W. E. Gray, Esq., of Bellefonte, will learn to his sorrow and bitter regret that his brilliant grand-stand display of oratorical pyrotechnics in the recent Republican county convention did not cover up the deceit and treachery that characterized his every action and utterance upon that occasion. No man who openly or secretly repudiates his pledged word of honor or attempts by intrigue and deception to secure the rejection of an agreement or compact to which he was a party, can hope to retain the respect and confidence of the people. This Gray did, openly in the convention and secretly in the councils of his fellow conspirators. His perfidious behavior left its impression on the public mind and to what extent he will discover should he desire to ascertain in the usual way—as a candidate.

COMPLAINTS were made to the Post Office Department last year in regard to about 100,000 pieces of lost mail. Large number, wasn't it? But the total number of pieces handled amounted to eight thousand millions—one out of 80,000 went astray. That changes the face of affairs.

AFTER all, why shouldn't the President be sworn in on March 4, as at present, and the inaugural ceremonies be held a month or two later.

The New Factory Law.

The new factory inspection act passed by the last legislature and approved by Governor Stone on May 29, widens the scope of the law and extends the jurisdiction of the inspectors. Section six provides that seats must be furnished for girls and women in all factories, and mercantile establishments, the latter class of business places now coming under the law. Section thirteen makes it obligatory upon the inspector and the deputies to inspect hotels, hospitals, schools, places of amusement, etc., which are required to have fire escapes. It would be well for those concerned to post themselves upon the requirements of the act.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From our Regular Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15, 1901.

The U. S. Government declines to get excited over the latest peanut revolution in Central America, notwithstanding the hysteria of certain gentlemen who have business interests over there. We have a treaty with Colombia by which the neutrality of the Panama railroad is guaranteed, and if Colombia cannot enforce that treaty, this government will do so with its naval forces, as it has done before. The gun boat Machias has been ordered to proceed to Colon, the eastern terminus of the Panama railroad, and it is believed that no stronger force will be needed to protect American interests on the Isthmus, but as a precautionary measure, the cruiser Ranger now on the Pacific coast, has been ordered gotten in readiness so she can be sent to the Pacific side of the Isthmus should it be thought necessary. This goverment has nothing to do with the war between Colombia and Venezuela, which seems to have grown out of the revolution against the government of Colombia, and will not interfere in any way unless it becomes necessary for the protection of American interests. That is the whole story in a nutshell, which has started all of the yellow journals to yawping and predicting that we are about to become involved in an European war on account of the little rumpus on the isthmus.

Hon. Wm. E. Chandler's protest to the Navy Department against the personal attack made upon him and his administration of the Navy Department by Rear Admiral Robley D. Evans, in his recently published book, resulted in the writing and publication of a letter of censure to Evans by Acting Secretary Hackett. Evans was doubtless glad to get out of the scrape so easily, but it is understood that all Mr. Chandler wished was to have the Navy Department placed on record as opposing the right of any naval officer to publicly criticise the official acts of the Secretary of the Navy, either while he is in office or afterwards. This he has done.

The Insular Division of the War Department was not, when established, intended to be a bureau for the promotion of matrimony, but a glance over its correspondence files shows that it has been indirectly the cause of many marriages, and Colonel Edwards, its capable and courteous chief, is in doubt as to whether he deserves praise or condemnation for the unpremeditated results. The epidemic of marriage was brought about by the regulations adopted by the division for the transportation of teachers for the public schools in the Philippines, which provided that the person directly dependent upon the teacher might, if practical, be furnished free transportation upon a government transport. That was enough of a hint for a number of bright young fellows who had been appointed teachers, and the division was at once overwhelmed with applications for transportation of brides, as "the person directly dependent upon the teacher." Inasmuch as the teachers alone were a severe tax upon the transportation facilities of the government, this was decidedly embarrassing, but Col. Edwards, who is a sympathetic man, was equal to the occasion, and no bride was left behind. All records for the carrying of brides were broken by the transport which carried the brides to the Philippines and Uncle Sam doesn't regret his bridal present of free passages, whatever some of the brides may do later. By the way, it is officially announced that all appointment of teachers will hereafter be made by Mr. Fred W. Atkinson, Superintendent of Public Instruction in the Philippines, whose address is Manila. The announcement was made to stop applications being sent to the War Department. There will be very few more appointments, anyway, except to fill vacancies.

A late census bulletin shows that Michigan has 1,248,905 males, 1,172,077 females, and 540,653 foreign born residents; Minnesota, 932,409 males, 818,904 females, and 505,318 foreign born; Mississippi 781,451 males, 769,819 females, and 7,891 foreign born. In the first two states the colored population is less than one per cent.; in Mississippi it is just a little less than fifty-nine per cent.

Once more the treasurer of the United States has denied one of the periodical stories, usually originating abroad and used to defraud those who can be duped into believing them, alleging that the U. S. Treasury held a large sum in trust for the heirs of a man who deposited it there. This time the man's name was given as Dembitzky, a Pole, who was said to have deposited the money there just previous to being killed while fighting in the Union army during the civil war. It is needless to say to those who are acquainted with the principles under which our government is run, that the U. S. Treasury is not and cannot act as a trustee for private individuals; consequently it holds no private funds in trust, but the ignorant and even some intelligent persons in our own country do not know this, as often as it has been stated in connection with this sort of thing, and naturally a story of this sort is readily accepted by the credulous in other countries, often to their cost.

Under a decision of the Comptroller of the Treasury, Secretary Wilson can use in his discretion, an appropriation of $20,000 in the Agricultural bill for the current fiscal year, to pay what will in effect be an export bounty on American fruits, in his efforts to build up a foreign market for our fruits. The money will be carefully spent on a plan that is yet to be perfected, and will, it is believed, demonstrate that a large and profitable export trade in American fruits can be built up with a little intelligent effort.

IF you cannot get away on a vacation, console yourself by reading in the papers what other folks are doing and how the hotels are doing them, and be happy.

Old Fogies of Today a Hundred Years Hence.

A hundred years hence! In nineteen hundred and ninety nine the newspaper which we read today will be framed as a curiosity! The opinions expressed by its leading-writers, so convincing now, will have been disproved by events, or will appear obviously unsound. The noisiest men and women of our times will be silent, and their names, which convey much to us, will be associated with little. The child is born, who, as a centenarian, will remember the South African war, the patriotic enthusiasm it aroused—and the reaction! The clothes we wear, the triumph of design as we imagine them to be, will be treasured in museums, and the men and women of the period will wonder how we could have worn such peculiar garments. It is inevitable, it has been the same in every century. The mind of any generation cannot see any further than its horizon. The photographs which we think perfect, will be hoarded in collection as early specimens of the art. The most graceful carriage of the day will be mouldering in some country house stable, and will look cumbrous and uncomfortable. The stamp commonly in use will be rare and valuable, and the tall silk hat—the outward sign of inward respectability—will be revived in theatrical representation of the period. Our generation in its passage through life like the it others, will have left little that is useful and much that is ridiculous now! How is that we cannot see what is useful and what is ridiculous now? How is it that we make the improvements which even those who immediately follow us will advise? In that direction there are many fortunes and much fame—but it is apparently permitted to none to touch the mental capital of his successors.—London Truth.

Want Lighter Uniforms.

The uniforms of the passenger employes of the Pennsylvania railroad will likely be changed next summer from the heavy double-breasted long coats to light single-breasted unlined uniforms for the comfort of the men and for the improvement in general appearance during the summer season.

This matter has been talked of very much lately among railroad men, principally because the conductors, brakemen and baggage men recently sent a petition to the general manager, asking for the change.

This petition was referred to the transportation committee more than a month ago, but no definite action has as yet been taken upon the matter.

There are about 8,000 uniformed men in the employ of the Pennsylvania railroad and an order for change of uniforms coming hurriedly would not be desirable at this time of the season.

The Wisdom of Childhood.

She is a dear little girl, the daughter of a wealthy clergyman, but her bringing-up has not been all that could be desired. For some time after the death of her mother, when she was a wee tot, she was left much to the care of a nurse, and managed to spend a large part of her time at the big country house around the stables, where she was a great favorite with the grooms. They were devoted to the baby, but it chanced, not strangely, that the child heard language which, however well it might do for a groom, was most surprising in the mouth of a little lady. But the baby was imitative, and by the time a governess had been obtained for her she had a vocabulary much larger than it should be, and which sent the governess in horrified haste to the clergyman before she had been in the house many days.

The clergyman called his little daughter to him and discussed with her the heinousness of her fault. He prayed for her and through his persuasion she offered up for herself a petition that she might never again be tempted in this wicked way.

"But, papa," said the little girl when the prayers were finished, "who told you about it?"

"A little bird told me," answered the clergyman, repeating this ancient fiction to shield the governess.

"There," said the little girl, with much annoyance in her voice, "I knew it was one of those —— sparrows," and the adjective she used in describing the sparrows was a word beginning with "d," and one not to be found in any grammar, ancient and modern.

A Twelfth Commandment.

England is conducting one war at least in which she will enjoy the sympathy of decent people the world over. This is a war against the spitting habit.

The state of English public sentiment on this subject is illustrated by a recent incident which was considered of sufficient importance to be cabled to this country.

On a crowded steamboat returning from Hampton Court to London one of the passengers spat. Immediately a score of people around him directed their disgusted and indignant gaze at him, and the poor man, mumbling an humble apology, retreated precipitately to another part of the boat.

What these indignant passengers would do if they had to ride on the Chicago street cars it is difficult to imagine. Perhaps they would wait until they came to the river and then jump in and drown themselves.

A passenger on one of these cars is fortunate indeed if some man does not sit in front of him and spit across his face, between him and the wind, during the whole journey.

"Thou shalt not spit" is the new commandment everywhere written and spoken in London at present, and it is time that it made its appearance in Chicago.

The anti-spitting hero of this city is Public Librarian Hild, who has never admitted a spittoon into the present beautiful library building since it was opened.—Chicago Chronicle.

What's in a Name.

It was Sunday in Pittsburg. DeWolf Hopper and his company were there. Now Pittsburg is, as are almost all Pennsylvania towns, very "tight" on Sunday. Hopper had three friends in his room in the afternoon and the intense heat parched their throats to such an extent that Mr. Hopper touched the button, says "Short Stories." The bell was answered by a colored bell boy whom Mr. Hopper directed to bring up four quart bottles of Blue Ribbon.

The boy departed, but soon returned with the information that as it was Sunday it would be impossible to get any liquid refreshments. Mr. Hopper said to his friends:

"I will show you what there is in a name," and turning to the boy said, "Go and tell the clerk that DeWolf Hopper—DeWolf Hopper, understand, wants four bottles of beer."

The boy again went down and soon returned with the much coveted refreshments.

"Now, my friends," said Mr. Hopper, "you see what there is in a name."

"Yas, boss, said the boy, "I done told them dat Wolfe de Copper wanted dat beer and dey said if dat wasn't ernuff dey would set em up ergain."

Here Are Your Maryland Girls!

From the Baltimore Sun.

Census reports are not generally interesting to ladies, but some figures that are printed in the Sun today directly concern them, and will doubtless attract their attention. It seems the female population of Maryland exceeds the male by 9,494, there being 589,275 males in the state and 598,769 females. Maryland women, however, are not like those of Massachusetts, who are in a hopeless majority because the demand for them is not equal to the supply. Maryland women are so attractive and so delightful that it is necessary to produce them in large numbers to meet the demands of the matrimonial market abroad as well as at home. The apparent excess of Maryland females is only statistical. It is not real or genuine. There could not be, in the nature of things, an excess of Maryland women. When the bachelors of other sections hear of Maryland's surplus feminine crop there will be a general rush from all quarters to secure as wives women who for sweetness, beauty, cleverness and capacity are chief among ten million, and altogether lovely.

Three Years Required to Finish Oak Grove Shops.

The time in which bids for sub-contracts for construction work at Oak Grove, Clinton county, will be received has been extended to next Monday, the 19th inst. Within two weeks from that time the contracts will be awarded and hundreds of men will begin work as soon thereafter as possible.

It is expected the erection of the immense buildings will proceed as fast as possible after the start is made. It will be fully three years before all the buildings, for which the plans are now prepared, will be completed. Contractors from all parts of the State are now figuring on the work and it was to accommodate the bidders that the time was extended for submitting bids.

The work at Oak Grove will not be fairly started until early in September, and it is not likely that any except some of the smaller buildings such as hose, coal and tool house will be completed entirely this year.

One thing is very certain, that there will be work for an army of laborers and mechanics of all kinds at Oak Grove during the fall and winter.

More Truth Than Poetry.

More towns die for want of confidence on the part of the business men, and lack of public spirit, than from the rivalry of neighboring towns or adverse surroundings. When a man in search of a home or business location goes to a town and finds everything brimful of hope and enthusiasm over the prospects of the hope, and everybody at work to build up the town, he soon becomes imbued with the same spirit, and as a result he drives down his stakes and goes to work with the same interest. When, however, he goes to a town and everyone expresses doubt and apprehension in the future prosperity of the place, moping about and indulging in complaints about the imaginary evils that are likely to befall the town, he naturally feels it is no place for him, and at once shakes the dust from his feet, while he pulls with all possible speed for some other town. Consequently, try and make a live, enterprising, progressive town out of the one in which you live. When you are working for or saying a good thing for your own town you are accomplishing all the more for your self.

THE ISLAND OF TAHITI.

It May Be Rightly Termed the Paradise of the Pacific.

Picture an island set in a reef of coral of myriad hues—the lagoon of a light green, outside the white foaming breakers the vast ocean of intense blue. On shore are great bunches of cocoanut palms lifting their plumes in stately magnificence, then there are lanes of trees blossoming in red and yellow flowers, and nestling in their midst are the low thatched houses of the natives. The delightful and healthy climate of the island brings to maturity all the products of the tropics, which are nowhere found in greater fullness and perfection than here. The wayfarer is soothed by the fragrance of sweet smelling flowers and delighted with the abundance of oranges, bananas, breadfruit and cocoanut which give a perennial supply of food to the natives.

Tahiti may be rightly termed the "paradise of the Pacific" or even the world, as in no other place is there so much variety of scenery. At every turn the constant surprises keep the traveler in a delirium of delight. Sometimes the sea lies before him, the waves wreathed in a foam of white breaking the silence in a continuous roar; on the other side the high, steep mountains in forms of towers, domes and steeples pierce the clouds. Now and then a silvery band of water falls from perpendicular heights to the turbulent stream below. Then you pass under the sheltering shadows of tall interlacing trees which excel even the grandeur of our elm. Farther on you pass through lanes lined with bananas, mango and groves of cocoanut.—Overland Monthly.

HAD NEVER BEEN ABROAD.

But For All That He Had Traveled "Fur and Wide."

"Have you spent all of your life right here in this one place?" asked a stranger of an old fellow he came across seated on a rail fence whittling in front of a log and slab cabin in one of the back counties of Arkansas.

"Not by a derned sight!" was the terse reply. "I been hyar the better part o' the time; but, la, I hev traveled fur an wide!"

"Ever been abroad?"

"Well, not eggsackly to say abroad, onless you call it goin abroad to go from here way over to Petersville. I been over thar twice in the last 40 year. It's 36½ miles to Peterville, an I been furder than that, fur my ole woman an me went clean to Hogback ridge on our weddin tower, an that's 41 mile from here. The Giraffe's Timidity.

A giraffe is very timid on hearing slight sounds, but is indifferent to loud ones. A writer in The Leisure Hour says: "Noisy sounds, like a man walking by with hobnail boots, it does not notice, but a lady coming in with hardly more sound than the rustling of her dress makes it start, with pricked ears and eyes distended. We remember well, after a terrible explosion of gunpowder on a barge on the canal, asking the keeper of the giraffes of that day how they had taken it, and he said he was surprised how very little notice they took. They jumped to their feet, but almost at once lay down again when they found nothing happened. "But," he added, "if I were at nighttime to creep along that gallery in my socks they would be so scared that I believe they would dash themselves to bits." They fear the lurking foe, and a bing bang scares them less than a faint, rustling sound. They are in that respect very deerlike."

The Bloodstone.

Bloodstone, which is really green chalcedony spotted with jasper, is accounted for by the following legend: At the crucifixion a piece of chalcedony lay at the foot of the cross, and on it dropped the Saviour's blood, from which time the stone is said to have borne red spots, which are supposed to increase and to deepen in color when danger is near. It is also said to revive the spirits and to inspire to great deeds, to check excessive bleeding and last, but not least, to render its wearer invisible at will.

Crane Island.

In Lake Minnetonka, Minnesota, there is a picturesque island which takes its name from the fact that it is uninhabited by man and given over to the cranes. Generations back these birds decided upon this spot for a summer resort. As times went on and the surrounding islands populated no man had the heart to disturb them, until now Crane Island is pointed out from passing boats as one of the curiosities of the northwest.

Shaves and Colds.

It is not generally known among men that close shaving is apt to bring on a cold. Barbers, however, are acquainted with this fact, and it is rather on account of it than through any desire to bring their patrons back soon again that they do not, unless ordered to, administer close shaves.

BIG PRICES FOR ANIMALS.

A Small Sized Fortune Needed to Buy a Giraffe.

Because of the difficulty of getting it to America and of keeping it alive after it arrives a good giraffe is quoted at $7,000.

Next to the giraffe in the aristocracy of cost come the rhinoceros and the hippopotamus, worth from $4,000 to $5,000 each. If a dealer could breed these animals, he could get rich, but the big mammals rarely breed in captivity. About the only place in America where hippopotami have been known to raise their young is in the menagerie in Central park, New York.

A chimpanzee of size is worth $5,000, and when one reaches the intelligence of the late Mr. Crowley, Chico or Johanna he is beyond a fixed price. The monkey kind are most uncertain property. The animal man says they are certain to die. But the ordinary ones can be bought very cheaply.

One can buy a nice young baby elephant for $1,000 at times, but a really good animal is worth from $1,800 to $3,000. An elephant does not command the maximum price because of the beauty of his countenance, the elegance of his figure, his intellectual endowments or his size, but because of a sweet, sunny disposition. A mean elephant is about the most evil of living things. Sooner or later he has to be killed, usually after he has slain two or three keepers and done more damage than he is worth. Of two animals of equally good disposition the larger and finer commands the higher price, of course, but the most magnificent beast with an inclination for murder isn't worth as much as a very common one that is trustworthy—that is, ordinarily so, for the sweetest tempered have days when they seem inspired of satan.—Junior Munsey.

NATURAL HISTORY.

The pouch of a pelican is large enough to contain seven quarts of water.

For mountain climbing camels are very inefficient and seldom used in Abyssinia and other mountainous countries.

Sparrows begin housekeeping very expeditiously. A pair of them will build a nest and furnish it with an egg inside of 24 hours from the time when the site was selected.

The female red grouse is said to vary its dress according to surroundings. It is a fact worth remembering that the red grouse occurs in no other part of the world but the British isles.

No one has been able to give a satisfactory reason for the formation adopted by the wild duck or mallard in flight. The birds arrange themselves in two converging lines, like a huge V, the leader occupying the point.

The ostrich is a descendant of a genus of bird which in prehistoric times attained an enormous size. In the alluvial deposits of Madagascar evidence has recently been found to show that ostriches 14 and 15 feet in height once lived on the island.

Stevenson's Cup of Misery.

R. L. Stevenson, writing in 1893 to George Meredith, in an epistle quoted in a new edition of his "Letters," says, with heart touching pathos:

"For 14 years I have not had a day's real health. I have wakened sick and gone to bed weary, and I have done my work unflinchingly. I have written in bed and written out of it, written in hemorrhages, written in sickness, written torn by coughing, written when my head swam for weakness, and for so long, it seems to me, I have won my wager and recovered my glove. I am better now—have been, rightly speaking, since first I came to the Pacific—and still few are the days when I am not in some physical distress. And the battle goes on—ill or well is a trifle so that it goes. I was made for a contest, and the powers have so willed that my battlefield should be this dingy, inglorious one of the bed and the physic bottle. At least, I have not failed, but I would have preferred a place of trumpetings and the open air over my head."

The Life Line In One's Hand.

There are three prominent lines in the palm—the line of life, that of the head and the heart line.

The line of life begins on the inner boundary of the palm, about midway between the thumb and the forefinger. If we imagine the left hand to be a map, with the fingers pointing north, this line runs toward the southeast, then curves toward the south and in some hands curves finally toward the southwest. It thus skirts the base or "uprise" of the thumb, known as the uprise of Venus. If it is deep, broad, of good color and extends nearly or quite to the wrist and if the rest of the hand indicates vitality and cheerfulness, the subject may be expected to live to a green old age; he has a good disposition and the qualities which good health and good temper usually create.

Power Without Heat.

As we watch the world famous plunge of Niagara we are offered an impressive lesson as to the small value in heat of much motive power. In so far as the descent is perpendicular, so that the water leaves the foot of the falls with comparatively little current, the effect of the concussion is simply to warm the water through but one-sixth of a degree F. To heat the water as much as one degree the falls would have to be 777 feet in height.—George Iles in Everybody's Magazine.

When a man is going up hill, people dig ditches in front of him; when he starts down, they get out of his way and give him the whole road.—Denver Times.

Dynamite Under a Store.

A charge of dynamite was exploded under the general store of Jesse C. Harmon at Penfield, in an attempt to wreck it, at 4 o'clock Sunday morning.

This is the second time within three weeks an attempt has been made to demolish Mr. Harmon's property with dynamite.

Harmon is serving a sentence of eight months in the Clearfield county jail for having caused the death of Ezekiel Hewitt. Hewitt had many friends in that section, and much bad blood has existed since he was killed.

SAVAGES IN JAPAN.

THE HAIRY AINOS AND THEIR RESERVATIONS IN THE EMPIRE.

Odd Customs Practiced by These Aboriginal People of Japan. Unique Styles in Baby Names. Their Resemblance to Our Indians.

The Ainus, generally known to Americans and Europeans as "the hairy Ainos," are the only aboriginal people now living in Japan. They are called "hairy" in contradistinction to the smooth faced Japanese, Koreans and Chinese. Their present home is in Hokkaido, or Yesso, the most northerly part of the empire, although it is supposed that in earlier times they occupied most of the entire country. Ancestors of the Japanese of today found them in possession and by force of superior arms and civilization gradually drove them to the north, much in the same way as the savages were driven back toward the Pacific by the early settlers in America.

The Ainus live today pretty much as the Indians on their reservations in the west. They are still for the most part half savage, and the Japanese name for them, "Yesso," means barbarian. They are very skillful in hunting and fishing, which are their chief occupations. They are under the protection of the imperial government and are entirely separated from the Japanese. The latest census showed that they number very nearly 17,000.

Among the many curious customs of the Ainus perhaps the quaintest is their method of naming their children. They observe a peculiar economy in giving names. The infant must go without a name until it shows itself worthy of bearing one. If it is sickly and not likely to live, it is not considered worth while to waste a name upon it. As each child must by immemorial custom have a brand new name, used by no one in the community, names are scarce and must be guarded. If the child should be given a name borne by some one else, the ghost of the former possessor of the name may come back from the underworld to avenge the slight.

It is customary to take a name from some incident that occurred at the child's birth or it is left to the parents afterward to choose one for it. Should the infant come into the world with a smiling face it might be called Ikishimaburu, which means a smile, or fond parents may call it Kamoissage (a pulling rope of the gods) if they wish their child to be in the special care of the gods.

From the age of 7 to 10 Ainu children of either sex have their heads shaved, but after 11 they are allowed to have long hair and wear the same clothes as grown persons. They wear no clothing unless the weather is very cold.

The favorite and almost exclusive ornament is the earring, usually made of metal. What clothing is worn is made of straw. They never wear shoes or other covering for the feet except as a great luxury and mark of distinction on ceremonious occasions.

The men carry small knives and tobacco pouches, and the women carry small looking glasses and knives. The knife is used as symbolic. The maiden wears it with the blade bare, but when she marries it is worn in a sheath. The women also paint their faces, using a kind of ink for the purpose.

The Ainus live mostly by fishing and hunting. They hunt the bear and deer, catch salmon and other fish and grow potatoes and millet. Whenever they can get it they eat rice, which they regard as the best food, though they do not raise it themselves. Both sexes smoke tobacco and drink liquor.

The marriage customs differ widely from those of the Japanese. The question is first settled between the youth and maiden, who then refer the matter to their parents through a mediator, who should be a relative of the prospective bridegroom. The man must send a present of lacquered ware, which is regarded by them as one of the most precious things in the world. This, however, is reclaimed by him if his wife afterward seeks a divorce.

Ainus live in dwellings of about the same class as those of the American Indians. The rude hut has two windows, one of them for ordinary earthly uses, the other reserved for the entrance of the gods.

Woman is fairly treated and held in deep respect. The man is not allowed to enter the house when the woman is in it alone, and he is not permitted to walk behind a woman. When a man meets a woman, he must salute first, by smoothing his beard and rubbing his hands. Then she responds by touching her nose with a finger of her left hand.

During October the Ainus hold a religious fete, which is called the bear festival, because they sacrifice a bear which has been carefully fostered for three years.

Judicial punishment among the Ainus consists of a severe beating with a stick administered to the culprit. The crimes are generally theft—stealing articles or the wife of a neighbor. As there are eight men to one woman the majority of the males are not married, and wife stealing is very common. The accused is subjected to a long examination by the chief of the community and is then compelled to resort to the ordeal of fire. He must take a stone out of boiling water. If innocent, the Ainus think he will not be injured. If the question cannot be settled in this way, the principals in the dispute must fight it out.

The Ainus are polytheists, though they limit their gods to two, a god of fire and a god of water. The first is called Kabekamoi and the latter Hatokamoi. They, also, like most peoples who have a religious system, believe in some sort of heaven and hell.—Japan and America.

GRANT'S RETREAT.

The General Went When a Policeman's Club Pointed the Way.

Speaking of nightsticks reminds me of seeing General Grant in his to my mind greatest hour, the only time he was ever beaten, and by a policeman. I told his son, Fred Grant, of it when he became a police commissioner in the nineties, but I do not think he appreciated it. He was not cast in his great father's mold. The occasion I refer to was after the general's second term in the presidency. He was staying at the Fifth Avenue hotel, when one morning the Masonic temple was burned. The fire line was drawn half way down the block toward Fifth avenue, but the police were much hampered by the crowd and were out of patience when I, standing by, saw a man in a great ulster with head buried deep in the collar, a cigar sticking straight out, coming down the street from the hotel. I recognized him at sight as General Grant. The policeman who blocked his way did not. He grabbed him by the collar, swung him about and, hitting him a resounding whack across the back with his club, yelled out:

"What's the matter with you? Don't you see the fire lines? Chase yourself out of here and be quick about it."

The general never said a word. He did not stop to argue the matter. He had run up against a sentinel and when stopped went the other way. That was all. The man had a right to be there; he had none. I was never so much an admirer of Grant as since that day. It was true greatness. A smaller man would have made a row, stood upon his dignity and demanded the punishment of the policeman. As for him, there was probably never so badly frightened a policeman when I told him whom he had clubbed. I will warant he did not sleep for a week, fearing all kinds of things. No need of it. Grant probably never gave him a thought.—Jacob Riis in Outlook.

POPULAR SCIENCE.

Mercury's year is only 88 days, that of Venus 225 days and of Mars 687 days.

Cumulus, or thunder clouds, rarely rise over two miles. Seven miles is the outside height for any cloud.

The edge of the moon is so broken by peaks, ridges and valleys that the length of totality during a solar eclipse is affected by them.

The sun's heat raises from the earth 37,000,000 tons of water a minute. To do the same work artificially a cube of coal 200 miles deep, wide and high would have to be burned every second.

The archaic, wasteful "beehive" oven process of making charcoal has been superseded in many parts of Germany by modern methods which save all the ammonia, gas, tar and other products of the wood.

A human body contains some of the small things of nature. The blood, for example, is a colorless liquid in which little red globules are floating. Every drop of it contains about a million of the globules, and they are susceptible of division into smaller globules still.

Making the Blind See.

Success in desperate cases by conservative treatment is the lesson often repeated and yet never quite sufficiently learned by any physician or surgeon. The infinite ingenuity behind the healing processes, the never renounced struggle toward normality, is an ever renewed source of wonder. All that is needed to elicit it is confidence in it, delay in doing anything radical, watchfulness to follow up the hints to action as they begin to show themselves.

We know of a living and happy patient who ten years ago had albuminuric retinitis from long existing Bright's disease despite what all the textbooks say as to "two years" in such cases. "Don't do the irrevocable thing until forced to do it" is the warning that has saved many organs and lives. Above all, never proceed with surgery ("the despair of medicine") until physiologic and medical methods have been exhausted.

The Wiener Klinischer Wochenschrift tells of the success of Herr Heller, director of an asylum for the blind, in educating the remnant of visual power retained by a "blind" child. There was only perception of light in a narrowed field left, but this by education was made to yield such indications to the eager mind that after 14 months of endeavor the boy has very useful vision, can distinguish colors and forms and even can read.

There are possibly thousands of blind people who have renounced vision instead of cultivating it to a degree that would render the blind types useless.—American Medicine.

Apple Pie Order.

To feel in apple pie order is a phrase which dates back to Puritan times—to a certain Hepzibah Merton. It seems that every Saturday she was accustomed to bake two or three dozen apple pies, which were to last her family through the coming week. These she placed carefully on her pantry shelves, labeled for each day of the week, so that Tuesday's pies might not be confused with Thursday's nor those presumably large or intended for washing and sweeping days eaten when household labors were lighter. Aunt Hepzibah's "apple pie order" was known throughout the entire settlement and originated the well known saying.

ADULTERATED COFFEE.

GROCER WHITE FOUND GUILTY OF VIOLATING OHIO'S PURE FOOD LAWS.

Interesting Facts Concerning the Roasting of Coffee Brought Out by Scientific Experts—Presence of Bacteria.

TOLEDO, O., Aug. 3.—The jury in Judge Meck's court in this city has found James White, a local grocer, guilty of selling adulterated coffee. The prosecution was based on a package of Arbuckles Ariosa coffee.

The State of Ohio, through the Pure Food Commission, prosecuted White. The case was on trial for nearly a month and attracted national attention.

The manufacturers of Ariosa coffee conducted the defense for Grocer White. The best attorneys in the country were retained to defend him, but, after a short consultation, a verdict of guilty was returned by the jury. The State of Ohio considers this a big victory. Pure Food Commissioner Blackburn has been waging a warfare on spurious food articles and the department has been successful.

The complaint of the State of Ohio was that Ariosa coffee was coated with a substance which concealed defects in the coffee and made it appear better than it is. The State charged this coating or glazing was a favorable medium for the propagation of bacteria.

Prof. G. A. Kirchmaier, of this city, a well known chemist, was the principal witness for the State. He had made scientific examinations of samples of Ariosa purchased from Grocer White in the open market. He found that each Ariosa berry contained an average of 300 bacteria. Mr. Kirchmaier further testified that other coffees he examined contained few bacteria or none at all. He declared that the glazed coffee was not a wholesome food product.

Chemist Schmidt, of Cincinnati, corroborated the testimony of Prof. Kirchmaier. The State did not present further testimony.

The defense through the Arbuckles, who prepared this glazed coffee, secured some of the most eminent chemists and scientists in the United States to give testimony in their behalf. Prof. H. W. Wiley, of the United States Agricultural Department; Prof. Vaughn of Ann Arbor University; Profs. Bleile and Webber, of the Ohio State University, were called to defend Ariosa. Dr. Wiley had made a careful examination of the method of manufacturing Ariosa. He told of the 19,000,000 eggs used by the Arbuckles yearly in the preparation of this glazing. On this point in cross examination, the State's attorney deftly drew from him the information that these eggs might be kept in cold storage by the Arbuckles for a year or two at a time.

The experts who heard Dr. Wiley's testimony were pleased to be able to "catch" so famous a chemist. The doctor at one point in his testimony explained very clearly how it is that the egg put into the coffee pot by the house wife settles the coffee. He said that the heat coagulates the egg, and as it sinks to the bottom of the pot it carries the fine particles of coffee with it, and thus clarifies the drink. It is the act of coagulation in the coffee pot that does the work. Later on in his cross examination, he had to admit that when the egg was put on Ariosa coffee at the factory it became coagulated, and as egg cannot be coagulated but once, that the coating on coffee was practically no value, as a "settler" when it reached the coffee pot.

Prof. Wiley acknowledged that the glazing might be a favorable medium for the propagation of bacteria, although he would not testify positively either way because he was not a bacteriologist.

Prof. Vaughn, of Ann Arbor, also a witness for the Arbuckles, said he found bacteria on Ariosa coffee.

Prof. Bleile, another witness for the defense, found any number of lively bacteria on Ariosa coffee he examined, and he agreed that glazed coffee surely was a more favorable medium for the propagation of bacteria than unglazed coffee.

Pure Food Commissioner Blackburn says: "The State is very much elated over its victory against this corporation. We are now considering the advisability of informing every grocer in the State of Ohio that it is an infraction of the laws to sell Ariosa, and at the same time give warning to consumers that the coffee is an adulterated food article."

The verdict of the jury in this case is of national importance because a great many other States have pure food laws like that of Ohio, and it is natural to suppose that similar action will be taken by other Pure Food Commissioners to prevent the sale of glazed coffees.

Washington's Fastidious Kinsman.

Lawrence, earl of Ferrers, a distant relative of George Washington, had a most tyrannical temper, and one day in a fit of passion he cut down with his sword his steward, an old gentleman named Johnson. The latter had given no provocation for the deed, and the crime was an act of brutality inexcusable save that the earl may not have been well balanced mentally. He was brought to trial for killing Johnson and demanded and received the privilege of being tried by his peers.

The house of lords was thronged during the hearing. The evidence proved to be conclusive, and Ferrers was sentenced to be hanged at Tyburn. Appeals were made to the king for clemency, but in vain. Ferrers met his fate with considerable bravado. He was carefully attired for the occasion and insisted on providing a silken cord for the ceremony. To this whim the executioner agreed, and the earl was turned off otherwise like any other felon.

AFTER THE QUARREL.

A single smile from her rosy mouth,
A sudden glance from her soft eyes sent,
And he turned, as the wind veers north or south,
And followed whither her light feet went.
Did she linger and look for a moment then?
Did she lift her face and smile again?
Nay, not so!
The heart of a girl, ah, who may know?

With every pace of his swift pursuit
Her step she quickened nor looked behind.
Eyes were speechless, and lips were mute;
Never a glance or cold or kind,
As if she cherished nor thought nor care
For the eager footfalls hurrying there!
Was it so?
The heart of a girl, ah, who may know?

Did she love him more when look and smile
Silently bade him to follow her?
Did she love him less when she wove her wile
His heart to trouble, his hope defer?
Nay, read you this riddle, strange, but true—
She loved him most when she most withdrew!
Even so!
The heart of a girl, ah, who may know?

CAUGHT IN AN EXPLOSION.

A Miner's Description of His Feelings When He Was Blown Up.

A miner who was blown up while blasting a rock describes his sensations thus:

"You see, it's so sudden. It's over just about the time you begin to understand that something is happening. You know, I had the cartridge in my hand and put it down. Then I got afraid of it. All at once everything was light. I don't think I saw the flash. Anyway my face was not exactly toward the explosion.

"But then everything got light, lighter than day—kind of blinding. There was an awful crash. It was just at the same time. I was terrified and wanted to get away. It was just as if I was having the nightmare. Somehow, though, I knew just what the matter was. A man can think faster than he has any idea of. I knew that some of the others were nearer the explosion, and I said to myself, 'They're blown in bits, that's certain.'

"You understand, this was all in a second—all at once, really. Then it was exactly the same as if I had been hit with a stick. I thought it was a big stick, bigger than any man could swing, and that it must be worked by machinery. It hit me on the head and all over. I went sailing into the air a long, long way. My ears roared, and the wind blew into my face. I knew when I struck the ground, for I remember saying to myself, 'Well, I'm done for.'

"I don't know just when I lost my right senses or when they came back, but when they did come back it seemed queer that I was there still. I thought I had been thrown somewhere else. I could feel fire burning me. It was my clothes. They were smoking and almost blazing. I was bruised all over and could not hear very well. My voice sounded as though somebody else were talking. That's all I can tell you about it."

Hawk and Partridge.

In "Reminiscences of a Falconer" Major Fisher describes the tactics of a partridge when pursued by a tame falcon.

The falcon was descending upon the partridge when the partridge stopped short and fell to the ground as if dead. He seemed to be lost in the short stubble of the field. He was far too knowing to trust himself again on the wing, and the hawk had no alternative but to take him on the ground, which he speedily attempted to do.

But on the ground the partridge was far more agile than he, running this way and that with great speed. The hawk would jump awkwardly up and dart after the scudding partridge, who just at the right moment jumped from the ground and over his back, descended on the other side and commenced running harder than before.

Time after time this was done. At every attempt the partridge met the hawk with outstretched neck and raised hackles, in the attitude of a fighting bantam cock, jumping up to avoid being clutched whenever the hawk struck at him. In fact, his whole action was that of a plucky little game bantam.

This went on for some time, until, as I regret to say, I ended the unequal strife by putting the partridge once more fairly on the wing, when, of course, the hawk readily overtook and captured it, not overmuch to his credit and still less to mine.

A Fish and Lizard Story.

One afternoon I thought I would go down the river and troll. I had on my hook a live minnow and in a little while had a strike, and I hooked my first fish, which seemed to be quite a large one. I reeled him where I could see him and found it was a large pike 25 or 30 inches long. I pulled him up to my boat, but when I lifted him from the water he was as light as a feather. I measured him and found he was just 30 inches long and should have weighed eight or nine pounds, while he only weighed two. He was just skin and bones. I killed him, took my knife and cut him open and found a live lizard, five inches long, in his stomach. The reptile was as black as coal and very lively, living 24 hours after I took him from his prison.—Field and Stream.

Without a Ring.

A wedding without a ring seems incongruous, but in Cadiz, Spain, no ring is used. After the ceremony the bridegroom moves the flower in his bride's hair from left to right, for in various parts of Spain to wear a rose above your right ear is to proclaim yourself a wife. Thus the rose takes the place of the ring.

A boy is like a fountain pen. You can't tell from what he costs whether he will make his mark or not.—Detroit Journal.

Among the Burmese a newly married couple, to insure a happy life, exchange a mixture of tea leaves steeped in oil.

An Echo of Mitchell's Farewell Feast.

James L. Mitchell, who recently sold his mines at Gallitzin, gave an al fresco entertainment and banquet to his former employes when the property was transferred.

This took the form of a love feast, in spite of the fact that strikes had been of frequent occurrence. Speeches were made by Mr. Mitchell and several of the men, and references of a good-natured kind were made to the past unpleasantnesses. Mr. Mitchell took occasion to say that everything had been squared, but was interrupted by a voice demanding: "What about those two drums?" Instantly the cry was taken up, and the chorus resounded: "Yes; what about those two drums?" Mr. Mitchell was non-plussed, until he learned that the miners had a brass band, and that during one of the strikes two of the drums had been broken and restitution had never been made.

Mr. Mitchell promised that the band would lose nothing by this, and, true to his word, he has replaced the two drums with 27 new instuments to thoroughly equip the band, together with 27 brand-new uniforms.—Philadelphia Record.

Two Greater Americans.

From the July Lippincotts.

At Butte City, Mont., recently a German, talking to the bartender upon the subject of labor unions, said:

"I tell you, of a man want brotection in dis country, he must jine a union."

An Irishman standing near, hearing the remark, replied:

"Phat's thot about a China union? We'll hove no China unions in this counthry, I'm tellin' ye."

"Who said anything about a China union? I say a man what wants brotection in dis country must jine a union," replied the German.

"There you go again wid your China union. We'll hove no China unions here, I'm tellin' ye," said the Irishman.

"I didn't say China union," replied the irate German. "I said jine a union."

"Well," said the Irishman, "phy don't ye talk United States, ye auld beer tank?"

"Why don't you understand United States, you Irish whiskey bum?" replied the German.

"Don't yez call me a whisky bum, or I'll smash yer face," said the Irishman.

"Und uf you do I smash you back," replied the German; and that's the way the fight started.

Canada Contented as It Is.

From the Toronto Mail and Empire.

In various ways and under all sorts of disguises has annnexation been presented. Sometimes its advocates have been lordly, threatening and coercive. At other times they have come as good friends, anxious to save us from "tyranny" and to make us really happy. The thing is now called "continental union," which implies a harmonious pooling of interests. But call it what they may, Canada will have none of it. There is plenty of room on this North American continent for the republic which has a four years' monarchy, and for the monarchy which is a true republic. Side by side they can work out their destines, each attending to its own concerns, and entertaining the best of good feelings toward the other. The Continental Union association is apparently a source of amusement for the New York gentlemen who belong to it. If it satisfies them it does not hurt us.

The Last Few Years Has Shown a Remarkable Increase of Sleeplessness—How to Overcome It.

Sleeplessness is one of the most prolific sources producing weak, nervous and restless condition. There is no sense in using opiates, they only undermine the constitution. Nothing has ever been known to perfectly control this condition until the advent of Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills. Their action is so gentle and soothing, sweeet refreshing sleep follows, then nature has a chance to build up.

Mrs. S. H. Sankey, of No. 203 Oak St., Philipsburg, Pa., says: "I can recommend Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills. to anyone who from overwork, overstrain or excitement finds themselves in a run down, nervous, sleepless condition. The Nerve Pills were recommended to me and I got some. STRAY THOUGHTS.

A gadfly and a domestic tyrant are much alike.

A woman sneering is a hideous sight, coequal with a man forever grinning.

The dreams that you have after daylight, they say, will surely come true.

We often get tired of enjoying our rights and generally yearn after other people's.

It is usually those who are least fit to be trusted who exact the most implicit faith.

A great many women transfer to their babies the love they once had for their husbands.

The skeleton in the closet is such a household commodity these days that we don't mind opening the door for the world to peep in, and can even doze comfortably while the bones rattle.

Astounded The Editor.

Editor S. A. Brown, of Bennettsville, S. C., was once immensely surprised. "Through long suffering from Dyspepsia," he writes, "my wife was greatly run down. She had no strength or vigor and suffered great distress from her stomach, but she tried Electric Bitters which helped her at once, and, after using four bottles, she is entirely well, can eat anything. It's a grand tonic, and its gentle laxative qualities are splendid for torpid liver." For Indigestion, Loss of Appetite, Stomach and Liver Troubles it's a positive, guaranteed cure. Only 50c at F. Dog Joins K. of P.

Members of the Knights of Pythias and of secret organizations will be interested in the following from Chambersburg: A thoroughbred pet dog was made a full fledged Knight of Pythias by Kearney lodge of that place Wednesday evening. Actor William Mong, whose home is here, took the last degree and requested that his canine companion be allowed to walk the narrow path with him. It was agreed to and the skye terrier made the rounds and rode the goat along with his master. As far as is known he is the only canine Knight of Pythias in the world. The lodge may give him a special Past Chancellor's jewel as soon as he goes through the chairs.

The Peril of the Young Girl.

The Rev. Francis P. Dougherty, rector of St. Clement's Roman Catholic church, Philadelphia, has some old-fashioned but wholesome views concerning the unrestricted companionship of boys and girls. In a sermon last Sunday he regretted that many young girls in his congregation are throwing away the modesty that is woman's brightest ornament. Continuing, he said:

"The prevailing custom among young folk of having picnics in groves, without the supervision or presence of older persons, is responsible for much of this moral laxity.

"What can parents who permit this sort of thing expect but misery and disgrace. Their weakness cannot help but be shown in the actions and character of their children. Under such a training, or lack of training, the clear eye and innocent manner of the Christian maiden must infallibly give way to the bold eye and brazen manner of the woman of the world. Even though she be technically pure, she is soiled in soul and unfit for marriage with an upright man.

"And yet I know parents who not only permit their children to go upon these picnics, but who actually arrange the picnics. Who, think you, is responsible before God for whatever of sin may be committed by the children of these parents during these orgies?"

The remarks of the reverend gentleman have an urgent application beyond the limits of his parish as well as of his creed.

From frightful disfigurement Mrs. Nannie Galleger, of La Grange, Ga., applied Bucklen's Arnica Salve to great sores on her head and face, and writes its quick cure exceeded all her hopes. Crews are forbidden to speak anything but pure English, and conductors are required to give directions only in the mother tongue. The railroad officials give as a reason for the new order that a brakeman a few days ago misunderstood an order given him by the conductor in Pennsylvania Dutch, and ran a string of cars on the main track just before an express train carrying 400 people came along.

MAKING TEST OF STRENGTH

So Far The United States Steel Corporation is Ahead.

IT STARTS SEVERAL MILLS

More Interest, However, Centres Upon What Will Occur After Saturday Night After Shaffer's Order Goes Into Effect.

MORE RUMORS OF COMPROMISE

PITTSBURG, August 9.—The contending sides in the steel strike are centering their energies for a show of strength on the day that the general strike order becomes effective. The United States Steel corporation is reopening mills closed by the first strike call to show its independence of unionism, and gathering strength wherever it may to lighten the effect of the general strike order, and the Amalgamated associations bends its energies to the extent of its membership and to obtain the support and the co-operation of the American Federation of Labor. The general strike becomes effective on Saturday night, and the claims put forth on either side as to the results that will accrue from it are widely at variance. Officials of the steel company admit that thousands of men will obey the order of President Shaffer, of the Amalgamated association, and go out, but they positively deny that the tie-up will be general. They point to their success in reopening four mills that were closed and say that they have strongholds at points where the Amalgamated association claims the greatest strength.

The steel officials are inclined to minimize the sympathetic assistance which the Amalgamated association will get. One official states the matter this way:

"What can the machinists do? Have they not just been beaten? And the mine workers. Did they aid the firemen?"

President Shaffer and his associates on the other hand insist that the strike order will be generally obeyed and that they will obtain more than enough support to cripple the steel corporation.

"We have those people licked to a standstill, already," was the way Vice President Gibson, of Allegheny, voiced the feelings of the Amalgamated people.

With both sides arming for the conflict, and a general strike but 48 hours away many ordinarily well informed persons hold the belief there will yet be a settlement of the strike.

Veryl Preston came here Wednesday and his presence started the rumor yesterday that he was here to ask for another conference in behalf on the steel corporation. Mr. Preston pointedly denied that he was doing anything of the kind and during the day made no effort to see any of the strike leaders. Some of the men who predict settlement believe there will be outside intervention from powerful interests and a submission of the dispute to arbitration. Different men of national reputation, including Archbishop Ireland and Senators Hanna and Scott, have been named in this connection, but if efforts are being put forth in that direction they have not yet appeared upon the surface.

President Shaffer devoted Thursday to a conference with President Gompers of the American Federation of Labor, who came here for a personal study of the situation before committing himself or his immense organization in any manner. The conference reached no conclusion and, unless there is an alteration of plans, will be resumed at 10 o'clock this morning.

President Gompers came here in company with Frank Morrison, secretary of the Federation, and was met at Amalgamated headquarters by President Shaffer, Secretary Williams, Assistant Sec. Tighe, Vice Presidents Rees and Chappel, National Trustees John Pierce and Ben I. Davis. They sat in session from 10 until 3 o'clock, when they went for lunch. They returned to the State headquarters shortly before 5 o'clock and after a brief talk parted for the day.

The Secret

Of womanly health would be esteemed as priceless by thousands of suffering women. Each month sees them moaning in a darkened room. At the best they endure pain every day. At the worst the pain becomes torment.

The secret of womanly health is in keeping the womanly organism in a perfectly healthy state. This can be done by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It regulates the periods, dries debilitating drains, heals inflammation and ulceration, and cures female weakness. It makes weak women strong and sick women well.

Women suffering from chronic forms of disease are invited to consult Dr. Pierce, by letter, free. All correspondence is held as sacredly confidential and womanly confidences are guarded by strict professional privacy. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Accept no substitute for Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. There is nothing else "just as good" for womanly ailments.

"I suffered for more than ten years with female weakness of very bad form," writes Mrs. D. Marwood, of Treherne, Macdonald Co., Manitoba. "I used Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and 'Golden Medical Discovery' with good results. I am able to do all my own work now. I do not know how to thank you enough for the kind advice you have sent me by letter. Your remedies did for me more than all other doctor's medicines, and I have taken lots of them."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure biliousness.

CIGAR OUTPUT.

The Great Numbers of the Weed That Are Sold.

The United States Tobacco Journal publishes the following official statistics of last year's cigar output:

Output of cigars, 5,773,727,119; increase, 418,087,294.

Output of little cigars, 684,450,480; increase, 37,551,630.

Output of cigarettes, 2,271,622,626; decrease, 365,860,112.

Output of manufactured tobacco (lbs.), 294,779,884; increase (lbs.), 15,207,115.

The figures of the output of our cigar industry during the fiscal year ended June 30 last stand in glaring contrast with the alleged dullness of the leaf market. Six and a half billions of cigars, big and little, must have been made of cigar leaf of some kind; they must have consumed at least a hundred million pounds of tobacco, and the bulk of these hundred million pounds must have been disposed of by the leaf market.

In 1897, just four short years ago, the output of our cigar industry was a little over four thousand millions. On June 30 last, it recorded an increased output of nearly two thousand millions and a half, an average annual increase of six hundred millions.

Despite the usual dullness at this season of the year, trade has been fairly good during the past year at Lancaster. The demand has been for all grades, and it seems to have come from manufacturers as well as large dealers. True, no large packings have been sold, but enough small ones to run up the aggregate to respectable figures.

Barring a set-back through a wind and hail storm, the New England crop has been coming along nicely.

Wisconsin has been pulled out of her drouth, and her tobacco fields have revived.

Important to Supervisors.

A Luzerne county jury has rendered a verdict, which, unless upset, may prove of wide application. The case was that of a woman and her husband against the township of Lehman for damages.

The woman and her husband one night in the winter of 1895 were on their way to attend a grange meeting. At a certain point along the road the snow had drifted and frozen to a solid mass, so that when the sleigh struck it there was an upset and the woman was so severely injured she has been an invalid ever since.

The jury struggled with the matter some forty hours and finally awarded the woman $1,000 and the husband $113 for the loss of his wife's services. The figures are not high for the extent of the damages apparently done, but the fact that there was any recovery at all fixes upon the township the responsibility for keeping the roads clear and safe for travel. In few sections of the State is any attempt made by the authorities to clear the road of snow and ice.

Destructive Grasshoppers.

The rain of Tuesday it is believed will have a tendency to destroy the grasshopper pest, which for three weeks past have been devouring the tobacco and buck wheat crops in nearby parts of the state. They destroyed many fields. In many places they are ruining tobacco and one crop near Wellsboro is completely ruined. The growers go through their tobacco with "shoo flies" and drive the pests of the tobacco into an adjoining field then they saturate the field with oil and burn them. This seems to be the only way of destroying them.

—A congenial "stag" party was entertained at the "House of Lords" on Nittany mountain Friday night.

CUMMINS A WINNER.

Was Nominated by Iowa Republicans for Office of Governor.

THE CONVENTION WAS ALL HIS

Platform Commends Congress for Establishing Monetary System on a Gold Basis and for Action in New Possessions.

THE PROTECTIVE TARIFF ENDORSED

CEDAR RAPIDS, Ia., August 8.—The ticket: Governor, A. B. Cummins, of Des Moines; lieutenant governor, John Herriott, of Stuart, judge of the supreme court, S. M. Weaver, of Iowa Falls; railroad commissioner, E. C. Brown, of Sheldon; superintendent of public instruction, R. G. Barrett, of Osage.

With the above ticket the republicans of Iowa will go into the next state campaign.

Cummins swept the board. He and his followers took everything that they went for, and from the first rap of the gavel to putting out the lights there was no time when they did not have the situation well in hand. The steering committee, who had decided to make their fight with Harriman as their candidate, had counted with confidence on organizing the convention and had declared that their best chance for winning with Harriman lay in this direction. They failed utterly in the make-up of the permanent organization.

Although Herriott and all his personal following denied up to the time the convention opened that he would take nothing on the ticket less than first place, there is no doubt now that the deal was fixed up with the Cummins men.

The platform adopted expresses "gratification over the endorsement given to the administration of President McKinley by the decisive majorities of last year, and rejoices in the manifold benefits resulting to the country from his re-election, which has inspired new confidence to the business world and established authority and order in our new possessions and strengthened the position of this country before the world:"

The platform continues:

"We would emphasize our endorsement of the action of congress in more firmly establishing our monetary system upon a gold basis, and in providing for civil government in Porto Rico and the Philippine Islands and for the relinquishment of our authority in Cuba. The policy of this government toward these islands has followed inevitably upon our expulsion of the authority of Spain. It has been dictated by the conditions present, has been consistent with the spirit and within the provisions of the constitution, and the paramount consideration has been to secure the lasting welfare of these people whose fortunes and destinies have become in a large degree dependent upon us.

"We are earnestly opposed to all legislation designed to accomplish the disfranchisement of citizens upon lines of race, color or station of life, and condemn the measures adopted by the democratic party in certain states to accomplish that end."

The policy of a protective tariff is endorsed and such changes therein are favored as from time to time become advisable. "Through the progress of our industries and their changing relations to the commerce of the world."

Hall's Family Pills are the best.

—Wm. J. McClimate, jumped from the special Methodist Day train on its return from Lakemont Thursday evening, at Hawk's Run, not far from Philipsburg, and was thrown violently against a tie, crushing his skull and otherwise injuring him, in which condition he remained along side of the track until about 6:30 next morning when he was found by some miners who were going to work. He was at once conveyed to the Cottage hospital, where he is now lying in a critical condition.

—John P. Raymon, of Stonycreek township, Somerset county, shot at a weasel which was worrying his brother Albert's chickens, and the result was the destruction of the barn, with all its contents, consisting of the year's crops, a large lot of improved farm machinery and agricultural implements. And so the world moves. The wind of ill-timed judgment often blows distress and ruin into the household of innocence.

The Loser Will Win.

The candidate who isn't elected to the office of poor director in Westmoreland county this fall will, it is said, get $1,000 to wipe out the sting of defeat. For the last several years, political campaigning there has been so expensive that the salaries of officials have been usually eaten up before their offices were obtained.

The six candidates for directors of the poor of the county, Republicans and Democrats, are reported to have entered into a novel scheme to cut down the expense of a fall canvass. There are five to elect. The plan is for the six aspirants for the office to contribute $200 each to a pool, in lieu of the customary contributions to the party campaign funds.

An agreement will be entered into that no campaign work shall be done, and the choice of the people shall be determined at the November election without any effort on the part of the candidates or of their friends. The low man will then be given the entire pool, while the other five will get the offices.

—The Press, published at Saltsburg, is responsible for the following: An unusual freak of nature has recently taken place with a cat at the home of Philip Motts, near Saltsburg. A cat gave birth to a number of kittens and, as the Motts family desired no more of the feline family, the kittens were drowned. The mother cat started off in search of her offsprings, and not finding them, returned with three nearly half-grown rats, and they are being cared for by the mother cat. It is an unusual union of animal life, and persons who have seen the curious freak and the care of the mother cat in feeding and protecting the young rats are astonished.

—Renovo was visited by a heavy storm Thursday afternoon which did considerable damage.

An Exciting Runaway.

Quite an excitement was created Monday evening by a runaway which occurred about half past eight o'clock. Mr. Joseph Runkle and Miss Carrie Hertzler, of Jersey City, a guest at the Brachbill home, were the participants in this exciting adventure. They had been out for a drive and had just arrived home and Mr. Runkle had gotten out of the buggy and was about to help Miss Hertzler out when he accidentally pulled on one of the lines and the horse started at a rapid pace before the young lady had time to alight.

Mr. Runkle had a hold of one of the lines and vainly endeavored to stop the now thoroughly frightened horse. Just as they passed the corner at the Brockerhoff residence Mr. Runkle was thrown down and the buggy wheels passed over him. The horse and buggy with its young lady occupant ran up Bishop street and the spectators on the side walks were badly frightened, expecting that a serious mishap would be the result. Miss Hertzler showed unusual coolness and presence of mind and although advised by the spectators to jump she pluckily kept her place and although she only had hold of one of the lines succeeding in guiding the horse in the middle of the road until she reached Aikens corner, where she turned the horse in on the pavement where it was stopped without serious damage.

Mr. Runkle was not seriously injured and now both he and Miss Hertzler are congratulating themselves on their narrow escape.

Baby Played With Enormous Black Snake.

The Philadelphia Inquire of Monday morning is responsible for the following thrilling snake story.

Mrs. C. P. Russel, of Boggs township, Centre county, is dangerously ill with nervous prostration, the result of a terrific encounter with a large black snake. The screams of a little four-year old granddaughter, who had been left playing with her baby brother in the kitchen brought Mrs. Russel and her aged husband to the scene and there they beheld a large black snake coiled up on a rug beside the children. When the reptile stuck out its tongue the baby, in its playful manner, would try and catch it. As the aged couple stood horror-stricken at the sight the snake continued to draw closer to the children. With a scream Mrs. Russel sprang to the rescue, seized the children and ran into the yard, where the lady was overcome and fell unconscious to the ground.

In the kitchen Mr. Russel, a feeble, old man, had a terrible battle for his life. The snake raced him round and round the room. "The struggle," says Mr. Russel, "seemed an age, although it lasted but a short time." Fortunately the snake received a blow on its head that caused it to flee into the sitting room, where it was killed by some of the other members of the family. On going out into the yard after the encounter they found Mrs. Russel still unconscious and the children sobbing over her prostrate form.

Logan Fire Company Complimented.

The Logan Steam Fire Engine company is receiving many compliments on account of the fact that they decided to use "clay" instead of live pigeons at their "pigeon shoot," which was held at Hecla Park Wednesday. The following communication relative to the matter was received at this office:

TO THE EDITOR OF THE REPUBLICAN:

I noticed among the items of last week's paper the advertisement of the picnic of the Logan Steam Fire Engine Co. at Hecla Park on August 14. Among the attractions prepared for the day was a "pigeon shoot," but not a live pigeon match as heretofore. I thank them very much that it was not a slaughter of poor defenseless birds. As one of the State Agents for the Society of the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals I sent our agent to one of these "live pigeon shoots" and in his report to me he said "it was one of the most cruel sights he had ever witnessed" and he had seen many. I trust that the Sportsman's League may substitute "clay pigeons" in their future matches.

Shaeffer's Store at Nittany Destroyed by Fire.

The general store of William Shaeffer, one of the most complete in the county, was totally destroyed with all its contents consisting of dry goods, groceries and implements. As there was no fire in the building it is supposed that the store was first robbed and then set on fire.

The contents of the store, on which there is a light insurance, were owned by Mr. Shaeffer and his loss will be very heavy. The building was owned by C. C. and C. I. Rogers and was covered by a small insurance.
